WILL PUT SHORT LINE ON THE MAP

Committees Are Authorized to Boost
Auto Route From Here to Cincinnati Today.

BROOKVILLE CROWD HERE

"Dixie Short Line" is Official Name
Adopted—to Get in the Automobile Guides.

A committee from the Brookville Commercial club and the automobile routes committee of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce will co-operate in marking the "Dixie Short Line" and will also see that the road through Indianapolis, New Palestine, Rushville, Brookville to Cincinnati gets a place on the road maps.

This was authorized this afternoon at the joint meeting of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce and the Brookville Commercial club in the assembly room of the court house. The two committees were also given power to solicit the aid of the smaller towns along the route that do not have commercial clubs.

The Brookville men agreed with the Rushville people that the short route between Cincinnati and Indianapolis should be listed in the auto guides and this will be one of the first things taken up by the two bodies. They will co-operate and it was believed by those present that in the next editions of the "Blue Book" and other auto guides the "Dixie Short Line" will be listed. The advantages of this route was pointed out at the meeting this afternoon. Among the speakers were M. P. Hubbard, John C. Shirk, I. N. Bridgeman, of Brookville and several Rushville men.

The name, "Dixie Short Line" was suggested by Brookville and was adopted. The name is not an infringement on the name "Dixie Highway." Another of the things agreed on was that the two commercial bodies should use their influence to see that the road was placed in good repair. There is said to be one stretch of the road, about nine miles in length, between Metamora and Brookville, that is in need of repair and the Brookville men stated that plans were not on foot to fix this road.

State Senator Eichman, of New Palestine, was present and in a brief talk assured the meeting that New Palestine would co-operate in the movement.

With their automobiles plastered up with signs bearing the inscription, "Dixie Short Line. Indianapolis to Cincinnati Via Rushville, Brookville, Harrison," approximately forty good roads boosters came here this afternoon for the meeting in the court house assembly room for the purpose of placing the "short line" auto route from Indianapolis to Cincinnati "on the map."

The Brookville men are enthusiastic over the project and hope to get the road in the Blue Book, the official guide for motorists, as well as getting all the turns marked as guides to automobilists and placing signs along the road to let tourists know they are on the right road.

"We can't call it the Dixie Highway," said one Brookville man, "but we hit on the next best thing—the Dixie Short Line."

The Brookville Commercial club has had considerable correspondence with the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce, which is one of the promoters of the Dixie Short Line.

Among the boosters who came in machines this afternoon were: A. J. Shiner, M. P. Hubbard, Lewis Federmann, Joe J. Kirshbaum, C. Samoniel, I. N. McCarty, P. H. Hartman,

AIRSHIP SINKS A "SUB"

Second Time in Naval History,
Under-Sea Boat is Sent Down

(By United Press.)

Rome, July 2.—A French aviator bombarded and sunk the Austrian submarine U-11 in the Adriatic, the ministry of marine announced today. This is the second time in naval history that a submarine has been sunk by an aeroplane. The Austrian U-11 was one of the newest of the Austrian submarines and displaced about 800 tons. She was supposed to carry a crew of about twenty-five men.

TAYLORS TAKEN TO PENAL FARM

Father and Son Leave For Greencastle to Begin Sentences of Six months—Fined $500.

CHESTER ALMOST ESCAPES

Sheriff Cavitt, accompanied by Elmer Caldwell, who acted as a deputy sheriff, left this morning for the state penal farm, near Greencastle, with Alfred Taylor and Chester Taylor, convicted "bootleggers," where they will begin serving sentences of six months each and will also lay out fines of $500.

Chester Taylor nearly made an escape from the jail last night. The keys were left in the door to the main corridor of the jail and the boy in some manner got hold of them and let himself out into the main hall leading from the jail to the sheriff's residence. He was in the hall of the residence and about to get out the front door when he was discovered and placed back in a cell.

The commitment papers for the two were made out yesterday afternoon and Sheriff Cavitt made arrangements to take the two today. Opinion as to whether Chester Taylor would remain at the state farm was about equally divided today, some holding that he would not be there two days while others said he would serve out his time. Counting the fines and sentence, both will be at the farm for almost two years.

FOUR VESSELS ARE SUBMARINE VICTIMS

German Torpedoes Find Lodgement
in Quartet of British Ships
During the Night.

WORST SINCE THE LUSITANIA

(By United Press.)

London, July 2.—German U boats during the night made their biggest haul since the torpedoing of the Lusitania. They sent to the bottom the big British steamer Caucasian and the liner Inglemoor, whose combined tonnage exceeded that of the Armenian.

The big British steamer Welsburg and the British schooner L. C. Towler were other submarine victims reported to the admiralty today.

The Inglemoor was the largest and one of the newest vessels of the Moor line of twenty-eight trans-oceanic liners. She was completed only two years ago and fitting out as a modern passenger and cargo boat. The Caucasian was one of the largest boats of the fleet owned by the Petroleum Steamship company.

ACTION TODAY UNLIKELY

Sayville Wireless Station Denies Handling Un-Neutral Mesages.

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 2.—In the absence of Secretary of the Navy Daniels and with Assistant Roosevelt in the hospital following his appendicitis operation, immediate action concerning the Sayville wireless station seemed unlikely today. The station management had filed a denial of charge that it has handled un-neutral business.

SUBMARINE FEAR CAUSES A MUTINY

Three Members of Crew of Norwegian Bark Abyssinia Wounded
Before Riot is Quelled.

QUEENSTOWN POLICE HELP

(By United Press.)

Queenstown, July 2.—Fearing attack by German submarines, the crew of the Norwegian bark Abyssinia mutinied today while the ship was lying in the harbor here.

In a bloody battle on the deck, officers shot three of the mutineers, wounding two fatally. Queenstown police ran alongside in a harbor boat boarded the vessel and quelled the disturbance. The Abyssinia was still in the harbor this afternoon.

DEATH IS UNEXPECTED

Rawlind Davis, Age 65, Dies at Home North of Raleigh.

Rawlind Davis, 65 years old, died yesterday afternoon at his home, north of Raleigh, after several months' illness, from heart disease and other complications. Mr. Davis was not believed to be in a serious condition, however, and his death came rather unexpectedly. He is survived by his widow and four children, Mrs. Owen Sweet and Mrs. Ethel Wright, of this city, Mrs. Goldie Parker and Verne Davis. The funeral services will be conducted Sunday morning at ten o'clock in the Raleigh Christian church and burial will take place in the cemetery there.

MONDAY THE FIFTH TO BE CELEBRATED

Practically Every Business House in the City Will be Closed all or Part of Day.

NOT A WHEEL TO TURN AT P. O.

July the fifth will generally be celebrated here this year because the Fourth falls on Sunday. Most of the stores will be closed all day and some of them part of the day. The banks will all be closed and the post-office will close up shop Saturday evening not to open again until Tuesday morning.

"We are not going to turn a wheel this year," said an employe at the postoffice this morning.

It is the only legal holiday of the year that the postoffice is not open until ten o'clock in the morning and one delivery is made on the city routes. The rural mail carriers never go over their routes on legal holidays.

All union barber shops and all blacksmith shops will be closed all day. The Benson delivery company has announced that only one delivery will be made Monday at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

NO PAPER THE FIFTH

The Daily Republican will not be published next Monday, the fifth of July, because that is the day which will generally be celebrated as the Fourth of July, since the holiday

SAY DEPARTURE IS "TIPPED OFF"

On One is Painting Warning That She Will Never Reach England—
Precautions to be Taken.

BY ED L. KEENE.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, July 2.—With the renewal on a large scale of submarine operations around the British Isles, definite reports reached the admiralty this afternoon that the departure of British vessels from North American ports was being "tipped off" to German submarine commanders.

The sinking of three big British steamers, the Inglemoor, Caucasian and Welsburg, and of at least two sailing vessels, was confirmed by the admiralty.

But the greatest interest was shown in the story of the Welsburg's crew that her departure from Cuba with a cargo of sugar for England was made known to German submarine commanders who lay in wait and attacked her as she was approaching the British coast. The crew found this painted on the ship.

"You have a cargo of sugar for England. You'll never get there."

Cable dispatches from New York reported rumors of similar threats against the White Star liner Adriatic, bound for Liverpool, with a passenger list that includes many persons of prominence both here and in Canada and eight Americans. It was recalled that similar rumors preceded the departure of the Lusitania from New York.

It was deemed certain here that extraordinary precautions would be taken to protect the liner through the war zone. For several weeks rumors have reached officials here that submarine operations were directed by information received in America.

George Smalley has purchased the O. C. Brann barn in East Second street and has moved his equipment from his old location, corner of First and Perkins streets. Mr. Smalley will do a general livery business in connection with his feed barn.

Swanson Pictured As Savage Man, Avowed Enemy Of The Indian Race

J. Arnold Tells Something

In Old Letters Published Here 40 Years Ago

(Editor Republican: So much interest and comment has been aroused by the publication of the items about Edward I. Swanson in the Daily Republican that I have decided to ask you to reprint the description of the event written by my father, Dr. John Arnold, under the heading of Reminiscences of an Old Settler.)

Arnold Home, February 25, 1875.
Friend Editor: There are few of your readers who do not know that Edward Swanson was executed in Rushville for the murder of Elisha

Clark, but beyond his crime and its punishment, but little or nothing is known of this man, and I propose in this paper to tell all those matters relating to him, which I know and which I deem would be interesting. He was a man of mystery, for though known as pre-eminent in woodcraft, successful as a hunter, and famous for his hostility to the Indian race, and the cunning and savage way in which he pursued them, yet no one knew from whence he came or what his antecedents; but enough was known to prove that his early years had not been passed in the wild woods of the west. He had a considerable acquaintance with literature and a great fondness for reading, two things never found in the native-back-woodsmen. These traits led to my first acquaintance with him sometime in the year 1822. My father, who was of literary taste, brought with him to this

Where Presidents Name Governors.

Alexander Hamilton was defeated in his attempt to give the president of the United States the power to appoint the governors of the states. In Spanish-American countries his ideal is generally realized.

The president of Colombia appoints the governor of each department, and the governor appoints the prefects and mayors. The president of Peru appoints the prefects, these the sub-prefects, and the latter name the governors. Reports flow up this official staircase, and orders flow down, so that the whole administration dances to Lima's piping.

In Chile there is a complete chain from president through intendant, governor and subdelegate to inspector. There are municipal councils for cities, but nowhere is there a place for the county, as we know it, electing its own prosecutor, judge and sheriff.—Edward Alsworth Ross in Century Magazine.

The Bulbs Went Astray.

The growth of bulbs is an important industry to Holland, as from Haarlem the markets of the world obtain their supply.

It is told of Said Pasha, who had a great love for flowers, that he placed an order in Holland for a choice assortment of these bulbs, for which he paid $5,000. When the bulbs arrived his "secretary of the interior," who received them, not knowing of the bulb order, sidetracked them to the kitchen. Soon after their arrival the pasha was to give an important banquet, and his chief cook, wishing to serve an especial treat, grilled the new variety of onions and served them hot. Evidently as an article of food they did not prove a success since the only comment the recorder of the incident made of the result was that pasha's interest in gardening received a severe body blow.—National Geographic Magazine.

LOCUST IS BACK AFTER 17 YEARS

Only Slight Damage Has Resulted However From Visit of Brood VI of The Cicada.

IS AN UNWELCOME INSECT

Prairie Dogs, Rabbits And Crawfish Grouped as "Undesirables" by Department

(By United Press.)

Washington, June 30.—After a welcome absence of 17 years, Brood VI of the cicada is visiting old friends in Northern and Central states, between the Hudson and Mississippi rivers and the interior counties of Atlantic coast states as far south as the upper part of Georgia. Brood VI is the well-known 17-year locust. He's been away since 1898 and when he departs this time along about the beginning of July, he'll not be expected back before 1932. And he won't be missed, for as any farmer can tell you, he's a tangle nuisance.

The peculiar habit that gives this insect his name causes it to arouse great interest each time it reappears. Also it arouses fear for the safety of trees; but, as a matter of fact the actual damage done is slight, accomplished by the female of species, which is deadlier than the male. The female cuts the bark of the tree to make a deposit for her eggs.

A careful canvass of the whole cicada area was made by the bureau of Entomology with the assistance of State Entomologists in 1898. These reports caused Michigan and Wisconsin to be included in the territory that has reason to expect the visitor each time he comes for wherever he's been for 17 years.

Ordinary repellent substance, such as kerosene emulsion or carbolic acid solutions, seem to have very little effect in preventing the depositing of eggs, but recent experiments with Bordeaux mixture or lime wash show them to be fairly effective. The cicada avoid trees sprayed with these preparations, especially if there are other trees in the neighborhood.

The most reliable means of protecting nurseries or young orchards is by collecting the insects in bags or umbrellas from the trees in early morning or late evening, when they are somewhat torpid. Such collections should be undertaken at the first appearance of the cicada and repeated each day.

If pruning is made necessary by the female insect's ravages the worst affected branches should be removed. The less injured limbs may be coated on the wounded parts with grafting wax or moderately hard soap. These protective coverings should be renewed at least once a year, preferably in the spring, until the wounds are healed over entirely. It may be expedient in the case of a badly wounded recently budded or grafted tree, to cut it back nearly to the bud or graft, so that an entirely new top may be made.

In the case of older trees the main object of treatment is to secure the rapid healing of the wounds and prevent their being used as points for secondary infection by other insects. The worst injured trees in such trees should also be cut out, so that all the vigor of the plant may be directed to the remaining wood. The process may be accelerated by thorough cultivation and the use of fertilizers on the land about the trees attacked.

Prairie dogs, jack rabbits ground squirrels, and crawfish are now grouped together under the head of "undesirable citizens" and extensive campaigns for their speedy extermination in many parts of the country have been conducted by the Bureau of Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture.

War was declared on the prairie dogs after they had made themselves obnoxious by interfering with the projects of the United States Reclamation Service in the west. The burrowing rodents have caused extensive washouts in dikes and fills, resulting in heavy damage, in the Strawberry Valley Project of the Reclamation Service near Provo, Utah. The campaign against them has already resulted in their complete extermination over large areas in Colorado, Arizona, and Utah. Most of them were killed by poison, and predatory birds and animals exterminated those remaining.

In Oregon and Washington, investigations are being made with a view of dealing with moles which have been interfering seriously with the cultivation of crops.

As a result of campaigns against the ground squirrels in portions of California National Forests, ranchmen and land owners have been encouraged to co-operate with the bureau and also to carry on independent campaigns. As a consequence, on thousands of acres which once supported squirrels in abundance, it is now difficult to find more than an occasional animal. Similarly, successful poison baits were prepared for the Richardson ground squirrel, which has become extremely destructive in North Dakota.

Other experiments have dealt with the extermination of rodents which hinder reforestation by digging up and devouring seeds or gnawing the bark of saplings. Special experiments were conducted in the national forest near Ocala, Florida, and at the Converse nursery in Southern California.

In response to requests for aid from farmers in southern Idaho and eastern Oregon and Washington, the department has assisted in destroying jack rabbits which have been doing heavy damage. In one small region, by the use of extermination baits, over 50,000 rabbits were destroyed.

Experiments also have been conducted in destroying crawfish, which do great damage in Mississippi and Alabama.

CAUGHT HAND IN BELT.

John Rawlings, of Milroy, caught his hand and arm in a belt at the Case sawmill in Milroy one day this week and it was drawn into a fast revolving pulley. The ligaments and tendon in his arm were pulled loose and he suffered severe pain.

The Cruel Schoolmaster.
An indignant mother wrote thus to the principal of an academy:

Dear Sir—My son writes me that he has to study too hard. He says he has to translate fifty hexameters of Latin a day. I looked "hexameter" up in the dictionary and find it is a poetic verse of six feet. Now, that makes 300 feet, or 100 yards of poetry for my poor son to translate each day. I think about half a hexameter or six inches of this Latin is enough for a boy of his age. Yours truly,

MRS. BLANK.

Amusements

The Gem will show a two reel Charles Chaplin comedy entitled "The Rounders" for the first picture tonight. Chaplin is said to be shown at his best in this comedy and it is one of the best he has appeared in. The other is a two reel drama "The Whirling Disk." Cleo Madison and Joe King are featured and it is said to be a remarkable drama. Tomorrow night the feature picture "Mavis of the Glen" featuring Bob Leonard and Ella Hall will be shown.

The Princess offers a three reel feature "Out of the Ruins" for the program tonight. Mabel Trunnell and Gladys Hulett are featured. One of the thrilling scenes is a fire scenes that is said to be a very realistic. The thrilling rescues add to the make up of the picture. Tomorrow night Charles Chaplin will be seen in his great comedy "Those Love Pangs" will be shown.

The Mystic will show the big six reel feature "The Littlest Rebel" for tonight. William and Dustin Farnum and E. K. Lincoln are featured and it is taken from the stage success of the same name. The scenes are laid in the south and are said to be very beautiful. A comedy entitled "The Happy Man" will also be shown.

Failures of Soldiers' Armor.

Many years ago several inventors developed bullet proof cloths or breast-plates, and in spite of much advertising their suggestions were never adopted, much to the surprise of civilians. The reason is very simple. If the bullet is stopped its energy is transmitted to the shield, which in turn delivers a blow to the soldier's body. The severity of the blow depends upon the velocity of the bullet, and if the shield is very light the chest wall receives more or less injury. In order to be effective the shield must weigh at least ten pounds.

It is a repetition of the old circus trick of striking with a sledgehammer an anvil on a man's chest. If in place of the anvil we substitute a thin metal plate the blow would be fatal, and the sledgehammer has about the same energy as a bullet at high velocity. If the shield weighs but six or eight pounds the blow of the bullet almost knocks a man down. Soldiers are not to wear armor, but to get behind it, as in armored ships, forts and motorcars. —London Tatler.

California Roads.

In his book "At the End of the Trail" E. A. Powell, F. R. G. S. says the following tribute to California road building:

"I am convinced that if the several thousand Americans who go on annual motor trips through Europe, either taking their cars with them or hiring them on the other side, could only be made to realize that on the edge of the western ocean they can find roads as smooth and well built as the English highways or the routes nationales of France, and mountains as high and sublimely beautiful as the Alps or the Pyrenees, and scenery more varied and lovely than is to be found between Christiania and Capri, and vegetation as luxuriant and hotels more luxurious than on the Cote d'Azur, and a milder, sunnier, more equable climate than anywhere else on the globe, they would come pouring out in such numbers that there wouldn't be garages enough to hold their cars."

Young Conquerors.

Napoleon said that a man ages quickly on battlefields. Speaking of one of his generals, he said at Austerlitz that Ordener was worn out, adding: "One has a short time for war. I am good for another six years, and then I shall have to stop."

"Strangely enough," says Lord Rosebery in "The Last Phase," "his judgment was exactly verified. Six years and a month from Austerlitz (which was fought on Dec. 2, 1805) would have brought him to 1812, to the Russian campaign, which, if he had observed his own rule, he would have avoided."

When his "star" was eclipsed for ever at Waterloo he was but forty-six years of age, but he had been a broken man in body, and to an increasing extent in mental power, long before. Wellington fought his last battle at forty-six, Ney at forty-five, Nelson at forty-seven. Alexander the Great was only thirty-three when death ended his career of conquest. Hannibal was in his forty-sixth year when he was finally defeated at Zama by Scipio.

A Pair of Eminent Grave Diggers.

The profession have a saying that parts make actors. When the $20,000 benefit to Lester Wallack was given in New York, with one of the historic "Hamlet" casts of the century, the public, of course, expected to see a performance that could never be forgotten because of its all round greatness. There was disappointment for the expectant innocents. All star casts want proportion, and this particular performance of the sublime tragedy was "queer."

For example, Joseph Jefferson and William J. Florence played the grave-diggers, and in their dressing room after Horatio's "there crack'd a noble heart," Mr. Jefferson said to his companion: "Billy, whose lines were you speaking, anyway?"

"Bacon's, I guess," Florence replied. "Perhaps," mused gentle Joe. "I knew they weren't Shakespeare's." —Detroit Free Press.

The Firlinfoens.

At Brianza, in Lombardy, there flourishes a very curious sort of band, all the members of which play the same kind of instrument, known as the "firlinfoens." This corresponds to what we know as "panpipes" and is constructed of reeds fastened side by side, the bass pipes being often several feet long, while the others gradually decrease in size.

The "firlinfoens," as the players are called, after their instruments, are as a rule ignorant of music and they learn their tunes by ear, often from a phonograph. It is said that the pan-pipe players experience all the sensations of intoxication after a march due to the energetic blowing and the constant wagging of the head to and fro. The music, although conveying to the stranger at first a most curious effect, is said to be not unpleasant. —Washington Star.

The March to Mecca.

The great caravan which every year sets out from Cairo for Mecca has a conductor on a camel leading the way. Day and night, whatever the weather is, he remains without any covering, naked to the waist. With him march men with large torches, which are kept alight during the night and illuminate the column of smoke above them, so that it appears a pillar of fire. During the day, when the head of the caravan is difficult to see on account of intervening hills and mounds of sand, the torches are kept burning, so that instead of the light which served during the night a column of smoke indicates to the straggling caravan from afar the direction of the march and the time and place of a halt.

The Professor's Reproof.

During a certain athletic event at a big university the students of a certain professor's class, well aware that their studies had been neglected, were prepared for reproof, but not for just the way in which it came.

At the end of the hour the professor slammed down his book on the desk and exclaimed:

"That's the worst recitation I ever listened to. Why, I've actually done nine-tenths of it myself." —Exchange.

Repudiated.

"I'm a self made man," said Mr. Cumrox.

"Didn't your wife have something to do with your career?"

"She used to say so. But after seeing how I behave in society she refuses to take any of the blame." —Brooklyn Citizen.

EFFORTS MADE TO RELIEVE FAMINE

Twelve Car Loads of Corn Are Star-ted Towards Mexico City as Means to Restore Order.

HUERTA MAY NOT BE GIVEN UP

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 2.—Desperate efforts were being made today to relieve the Mexico City famine. Thus only, it was believed could order be restored and foreigners saved from grave danger.

Consul Silliman notified the state department that twelve car loads of corn in charge of an American, were forwarded from Vera Cruz Thursday to the point where the Vera Cruz-Mexico City railroad line is broken.

Carranza officials and railroad officers promised to do all in their power to get the shipment into the capital.

That the United States will comply with General Villa's request for General Huerta's surrender to him on charges of complicity to murder the late President Madero and Vice-president Saurez in Mexico was deemed unlikely here today.

Hays Make Pledge.

In a public speech at Anderson recently Chairman Will H. Hays, of the Republican State Central Committee made the following appeal and pledge to those voters in Indiana who are figuring on affiliating with the Republican party in the campaign of 1916:

"All those good citizens who voted other tickets, and especially those who were affiliated with the Progressive party last year and who have not yet come with their friends in the Republican party, are again most earnestly and sincerely urged to join our fighting force and become a potent part of the party of protection and prosperity, with an equal voice in the management of the party's affair with every other man in the party.

"As here and now we greet these good friends who are with us, with that peculiar pleasure, that strength of hand and warmth of heart that comes only with the reunion of strong spirits in a perfect understanding, so here and now we renew to all our pledge that the rights of individuals within the party to a full participation in the party's activities shall be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal. This is the party's solemn promise. Its fulfillment shall be our most earnest, constant aim.

"The solution of the entire matter is now solely a question of patriotism. We are approaching a period in our industrial and national life second to none in complexity and in most serious importance. The country looks to the Republican party to meet it. It has never failed in such a crisis. It will not fail now—but there is a tremendous work to do. To aid in this is duty. The country needs the Republican party—and what his country needs it is the duty of every man to give. The country needs the party; and the party wants these men. To them all I say, let us be constructors, not obstructionists. Let us do this work together. Come."

HOOSIER HISTORY

HOOSIER HISTORY BOX (Prepared by the United Press from Records in the State Library)

Uncle Sam, himself, was a victim of "frenzied finance" in 1882 when one of the first state banks, that at Vincennes failed. The United States government lost more than $160,000 the proceeds on land sales.

Of the fourteen branches which were proposed to the state bank at Vincennes only three were ever organized. These were at Brookville, Corydon and Vevay. Indianapolis, now the Hoosier Metropolis, did not have a bank until 1832.

country a well selected library of several hundred volumes of standard works on history, philosophy, natural history, poetry and general belles-lettres. Swanson, as soon as he learned this fact sedulously cultivated the acquaintance of my father so as to obtain the loan of his books. My father cheerfully loaned him his books and took much interest in his tales of hunter's life and the recital of conflicts with Indians. He was a blood-thirsty man and hated the whole race with a perfect hatred, boasted that he had killed many a one in time of peace as well as war whenever an opportunity presented for doing it in safety. He used to boast that he showed plenty of bones of Indians in this country who had fallen by his hand. It appears that he had come to the west early in the present-century and had had his share of adventures. As a woodman he could scarcely be excelled; it seemed more like instinct than reason, the certainty with which he could traverse the pathless forest, by day or by night; the desired direction was all he required.

In the year 1823, my father being entirely unacquainted with the process of sugar making, proposed that they should join together and make a partnership. They accordingly opened a camp on the school section, where there were a great abundance of fine sugar trees. This was about three miles from my father's and still further from Swanson's. They took provisions with them sufficient to last for several days, so that they would not have to return home during the run. Whenever they would get all of the water boiled down, they would start frequently late at night and very dark, and at that time the woods were dense with spicebrush, rendering it still more difficult to keep a straight course, but it made no difference with Swanson, he always struck the northeast corner of my father's clearing. If there were no stars visible, he kept his course by feeling the moss on the trees; you are no doubt aware that it grows more luxuriantly on the north side.

I will mention here a little incident that occurred illustrating a particular trait in his character, show that though he feared nothing human he was superstitious and troubled at the supernatural. One night they were boiling very late, their fire beside a large log giving a bright light, when they heard the rustling of leaves and saw what they first thought a dog approaching along a well worn Indian path passing within a few rods of and within the full light of their fire, but which they presently saw a large panther. It passed slowly, deliberately, not even turning its head to look at them, giving no signs of either of fear or anger.

My father expressed his astonishment at its boldness in coming so near them in the strong glare of the fire, as such animals usually fear it. Swanson replied that it was not a real panther, but the spirit of some Indian he had slain, and had taken this form to manifest itself to him, but for what purpose he knew not. He was then and ever afterward unwilling to discuss the subject.

He was once taken prisoner by Ben Davis' band and held for some time in captivity in this village, a short distance from where I now live but his cunning and knowledge of Indian character enabled him to escape. He was personally unknown to his captors, who had no idea they held one of their most dangerous foes. The Indians would frequently invite him to shoot at a mark, which he invariably missed; when they took him with them on their hunts, he never could kill anything; he also took pains to carry wood and water for the squaws; all these things excited their contempt and convinced them that he was no warrior, and they had no fear that so poor a hunter would try to escape. Finally the warriors had all gone away on some expedition, leaving none but the old men, women and children when Swanson, equipping himself with a rifle, tomahawk and knife, struck a bee line for the nearest settlement, where he arrived in safety, having traveled night and day. I will here note the fact that he was one of the best marksmen on the frontier and his awkwardness in the use of the rifle was a cunning ruse to deceive the Indians.

To illustrate his innate ferocity, I will relate some incidents I have frequently heard him tell. At one time when there was peace between the Indians and whites, an irrepressible desire to kill one of the hated race seized him, and he determined at all hazards to gratify his inclination in this particular. Accordingly, with his deadly rifle on his shoulder, his tomahawk and long hunting knife at his side and carrying a small sack of dried venison and parched corn, he set out for one of the White river towns. Arriving after night, he secreted himself behind a log in a dense pawpaw thicket, his ambush commanding a much used Indian path. Here, in the confident assurance that the first solitary Indian that passed this road would fall an easy victim to his vengeance, he lay and watched three days and night in vain, for it so happened that though many passed, there were always two or more together, and if he had shot one, an immediate alarm would have been given and a relentless pursuit followed, and as he had no desire to lose his own scalp, he did not shoot. His provisions being exhausted and not daring to shoot game, for he said the Indians should at once detect that it was the report of a white man's rifle by the wonderful nicety of hearing peculiar to the savage, he was obliged to return home without the gratification of having another of the hated red men. He always spoke with regret of the cruel disappointment.

He had a congenial associate, a brother-in-law named Myers, as keen a hunter and unsparing an Indian fighter as himself. In my earliest recollections of him, he was a squatter in the poplar grove, about a mile west of Williams Creek, and a little south of the Connersville and Rushville turnpike. Physically, he was powerful and active, morally, unscrupulous and dangerous. On one of their hunting expeditions they fell in with a man who told them that he had discovered a silver mine, and who agreed after much persuasion and some threats to show it to them. He took them down to the southern part of the state, and after winding about through innumerable ravines and climbing steep and rocky hills for a day or two, told them he could not find it. This made them extremely angry, for they were convinced that the alleged discovery was an idle boast made to deceive, or if real, he had determined not to allow them to share in its advantages, so one morning they told him if he did not find it that day, that he would never return to the settlement. At this point Swanson always stopped as if the tale was told; if any one, not satisfied with such an impotent conclusion, inquired if he showed them the silver mine, Swanson would reply that he had not; and if curiosity prompted further questioning as to what became of him, he would reply evasively, though suggestively, that he was never afterwards seen in the settlement, leaving the hearers to draw their own inferences.

His wife was a suitable companion for him. She was a sister of the Myers just mentioned, and when Swanson married her, was a widow by the name of Conn. He had formed an acquaintance with the family during her husband's lifetime and was a frequent visitor at their cabin in the wilderness. Business compelled Conn to go back to his old home, I think in North Carolina, but he never again saw wife or child. He was last seen when only a day's journey from home, well mounted and with saddlebags under him which contained a considerable sum of money in silver. But he never reached home and all search and inquiry failed to dispel the mystery of his fate. In a short time Swanson married the widow, and they were many, who, knowing how unscrupulous and reckless of human life he had always been, believed that he could, if he would, tell more about the missing man than anyone else.

I have always thought that Swanson was brought up and educated in some of the old settled states, but having committed some bloody deed, fled to the frontier for concealment and safety and that having found the wild adventurous life of the wilderness congenial to his tastes, had adopted it, forever renouncing the milder pleasure of civilization.

When I first saw him he was probably over fifty years old, a little above the average height, slender but muscular, quick in his motions; his complexion had been originally fair, but constant exposure to the elements had bronzed it; his hair was thin and light colored; his eyes a cold gray, but his most striking peculiarity was his immense bushy eyebrows, almost white, which he had a trick of drawing down when excited, and which gave to his countenance a most savage and sinister expression. He had the walk characteristic of both the red and white hunter; that is he lifted his foot high bringing it down lightly but firmly, which prevents the rustling produced among dry leaves by the usual mode of walking. This style of walking seems very peculiar to the uninitiated. Another hunter's habit was his constant watchfulness, his eyes continually turning to the right and left, as if he was in an enemy's country momentarily expecting attack.

I will conclude this paper next week, by giving the particulars of that deed by which he is best known to the community, the murder of Clark.

Respectfully,

J. ARNOLD

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

(By United Press.)

* Richmond, Ind., July 2.—
* Somewhere in the wide, wide world is a man who knows that newspaper men have judgement.
* This man is named Blitt—Mr. George Blitt—professional itinerant.
* While in this city Mr. Blitt indulged too freely of the cup that cheers, and that evening he was apprehended by a Richmond officer.
* The mayor was absent the next morning and Prosecutor Keller asked a police reporter whether he felt qualified to sit as judge. The reporter did. He took the bench and at Mr. Blitt's request administered the pledge "never again in life to touch alcoholic liquors."
* "Now, my friend," said the special judge, "you are at liberty to leave this court and go on your way."

—Bert Walton, Mrs. John Scott and sons Walter and John, Jr., of Indianapolis motored to this city today, and visited their mother, Mrs. Mary Walton of East Sixth street.

They're Really Wonderful Waists For $1.00—and They Cannot be Bought in Any Other Store.

Here are pictured four new styles in Wirthmore Waists that are on sale now. We cannot too strongly emphasize the statement that these Waists, according to our agreement with the maker, are sold here and here only; they cannot be bought elsewhere in this city. As to their marked superiority over other waists, at the same or somewhat higher prices, this we believe is now universally recognized. We might seem guilty of an exaggeration, were we to state what, in our opinion, these waists are really worth; suffice it to say, they're worth a lot more than the very modest price at which they're always sold.

Wirthmore Waists are sold here exclusively.

SERVICE

Of the three essentials—strength, organization and service—afforded to clients of this Bank, SERVICE is not the least important.

The Bank's entire organization is permeated with the spirit of service. It is not enough to accept and safeguard the banking and trust business of clients; every effort is put forth to be of additional active service, within the Bank's proper sphere.

For example, the Bank, if appointed custodian of securities, will as agent sign ownership certificates required by the Federal Income Tax Law, collect dividends and coupons promptly as they mature, and either credit or remit the proceeds to the client; and will promptly notify him should any "rights" or other subscription privileges attach to the securities held.

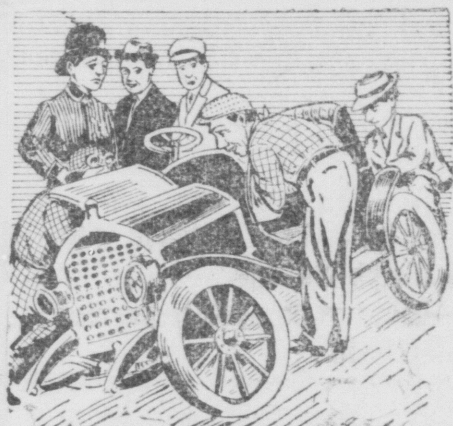

Another example, clients are welcome to the Bank's facilities for investment and for investigating and analyzing the value of securities.

Many other examples of special service to clients might be mentioned, all of which would help to explain the rapid and substantial growth of this Bank's business.

LARGE CROWD TO FOLLOW TEAM

Fans Will Make Trip to Newcastle Sunday to Witness Game With Maxwell Team.

SHOULD BE GREAT BATTLE

Humpty Badel May be Back in Time to Get in Rushville Lineup—Hewitt to Pitch.

SUNDAY'S "IF" TABLE.

	Win	Lose
Rushville	.500	.500
Newcastle	1.000	.667

By beating Newcastle Sunday the Rushers have a chance to come home in first place as the Maxwells are now leading the league. Also if Rushville wins and Connersville wins Newcastle will be forced into third place. There are several "ifs" connected with all this and it remains to be seen just what will actually happen.

One thing is certain, Rushville is going to Newcastle to give them a battle and if the team does not win the fans will always think they should. It is safe to say that the Rushers will be the fastest team Newcastle has faced this season. Hewitt will oppose Walters and this alone should mean a pretty battle.

There will be no changes in the Rushville lineup unless Humpty Badel gets in from the Coal league. Humpty told Manager Davidson he would try and get back for the Newcastle game and the fans are pulling for him to get in on time. Badel will add much strength to the team's hitting and fielding. If Badel gets back he will be played in right field. The fans all like Humpty and he adds a lot of pep to the game.

George Rohe will again be seen on first base and Laacke on third. Reggy will play short and Schlenker second. A great crowd of Rushville rooters are expected to make the trip and pull for a Rushville win. The special train leaves over the Lake Erie at 12:30 o'clock. Many auto parties will also make the trip and from all indications Rushville will be well represented at the Rose City.

Manager Ritter is figuring on getting out the band and meeting the Rushville train. If Ritter would have saved the band until Monday he might get out a crowd large enough to play the Rushers on this day instead of calling it off.

TWO RUSHERS HITTING BALL

George Rohe Stinging Old Pill For .428 and Bob Goodfellow Finds it For .363.

BOTH WELL TOWARDS FRONT

In Averages Announced Today Rushville Team Continues to Lead in Fielding.

In the list of Indiana State league averages announced today Rushville has two men well towards the head of the list. These two are George Rohe, the Rushers star first baseman and Bob Goodfellow, the stellar catcher. Rohe is hitting the ball for .428 and Goodfellow is hitting her out for a total of .363.

These are the only two Rushville players hitting over .300 in the three games of the league. Goodfellow and Rohe have put the team to the front by their work in the past two games. Laacke, the Rushers third baseman, in the one game he has played hit for .250. Cordes is hitting at .181 and Hellmund is hitting at .100. Both of these are due to increase their average as they just started finding the ball last Sunday.

Dunlap, of Newcastle, Mollenkamp, of Cambridge City and Bartley, of Connersville are the real league leaders in the batting line. Dunlap is hitting for .555; Mollenkamp at .500 and Bartley at .500. Then comes our own George Rohe and Steele of Newcastle. In the list Goodfellow is ninth and is tied with Keifel of Connersville.

The Rushers are still at the bottom of the list in team batting. The team as a whole is batting .167. This average was increased over last week by the game Sunday with Richmond. The Rushville team is only five points below Cambridge City in team batting. The league is being led by Richmond with an average of .256. Connersville and Newcastle are tied at .250 and are followed by Cincinnati at .182.

The Rushville team continues to lead the league in fielding. The team has had a total of 81 putouts, 48 assists with only 4 errors. In the three league games included in the averages only one home run has been hit. Weikle of Connersville gets this honor. Richmond has 3 three-base hits to its credit. In two base hits Newcastle had made five; Richmond four; Connersville, three; Rushville three and Cambridge City one.

INDICTMENT HAS ONE NEW COUNT

No. 25 Was Not Included in the Terre Haute Cases—Regards Outside Intimidation

NOT KNOWN TO GRAND JURY

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—If count No. 25 in the Indianapolis election—corruption conspiracy indictment is proved, Indianapolis will have added a new one to the list of election crimes—that is, one that wasn't uncovered in the Terre Haute election corruption trial in the Federal court.

The allegation is that inspectors and election judges allowed "numerous persons to the grand jury unknown" to go within the railings where the voting machines were situated and there intimidate and compel duly qualified voters not to vote or to vote differently than they desired.

In Terre Haute men went in and voted for qualified voters but there was no record of intimidation within the booth of the voting machine by rank outsiders.

POLO PLAYERS HARD AT WORK

American Team Practices Just as Much as Though They Were Going to Play British

NEXT MATCH IN ENGLAND

No Chance For International Games This Year But Fans Are Looking Forward

BY BARRY FARIS

New York, July 2.—American polo players may have to wait a year or two before they get another opportunity to display their talent against their British brothers—in sport. But in the meantime the American players are keeping in perfect trim just as if the event was to be played this year as usual. The American polo authorities realize there is little chance for a match for some time, not at least until the war ends, for England is the place the next match will be staged.

But the distance of the date is one of the chief reasons why members of polo teams all over the country are practicing and playing exhibition games. For when the British get ready to give battle to the Americans on the polo field Uncle Sam's representatives are determined to be prepared.

And the enthusiasm with which the players have stuck to their practice work, where the cheering of spectators is painfully absent and the applause of admirers lacking, argues well for the spirit that dominates the sport. The local polo clubs have been keeping in condition by playing at the Meadowbrook Club, where friendly rivalry has added to the sport.

The same spirit is evident in the west, as testified by the spring tournaments in California. From reports reaching officials of the American Polo Association every big polo club in the country is faithfully following the leadership of the Meadowbrook Polo Club and maintaining its fighting form, to be ready when the opportunity for an international match presents itself.

As a boost to the sport, Chairman Herbert of the American Polo Association, has mailed invitations to all players asking them to compete in the tournaments arranged for this season. This general opening of the doors of the sport world to all comers indicate that the Polo Association has no desire to restrict members of the American polo term in international contests to players from the Meadowbrook Club.

The American Polo Association has leased the Point Judith Association grounds, at Narragansett Pier, where it is planned to hold tournaments every year, beginning this season. From the play during the season at the Point Judith grounds the members of the Big Four, that will represent America in international matches, will be selected, as it is expected all the prominent players in the country will at some time exhibit their talents there.

This unofficial elimination arrangement would give every player a fair shake and should prove especially attractive to western players. Officials of the Polo Association emphasized that they hoped players from the west would make an effort to attend the tournaments this year as their appearance on the field is the best evidence they can offer to their fitness to make the Big American Team.

It is desired that when the next challenging team is formed the players may be selected according to their abilities and to make this possible players benefit themselves, and the sport, by giving the American Polo Association a chance to fairly and adequately judge their capabilities. The invitation is open and is to be well advertised all over the country so that all who ride may read.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

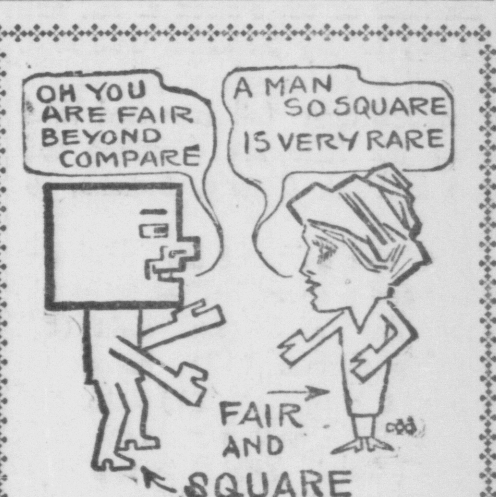

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Movies Have Now Invaded The Sacred Field of Science

The "Movies" have invaded even the sacred field of science. The latest up-to-the-minute discovery is their peculiar value in Diagnosis. This discovery was made by the osteopaths and will be first demonstrated at the world's congress of osteopathic physicians surgeons and specialists in Portland, Oregon, the first week in August. Officially it is entitled the nineteenth annual session of the American Osteopathic Association, but as the foreign osteopaths are included in this organization it is in reality an international meeting. A thousand delegates will be present. Only one other school of practice has a larger attendance at its sessions, and no other has such a high percentage of its members present. At this convention the osteopaths will celebrate their arrival at the second place numerically in the healing art, as they have now more students than any other school of practice, save one, and are graduating more every year than any except the old school. They will also celebrate the fact that legislature recognition has now been secured in every State and that their colleges have been placed upon a full four year basis with the same or higher requirements than those of medical schools. The founder of osteopathy, Dr. A. T. Still, is still living at his home in Kirksville, Mo., the birthplace of the practice, but owing to the infirmities of his advanced age, will probably be able to attend the convention. The number of his followers now reaches 7,000.

Dr. J. Ivan Dufur, professor of nervous diseases, of the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, is the latest hero of the "Movies." For four hours he and the camera men were locked in a room with four insane epileptics waiting to snap just the right kind of fits. They also had many other harrowing experiences. Moving pictures, it is predicted will revolutionize the teachings of disease and diagnosis as these subjects can in no other way be vividly presented to the student.

Sunday preceeding the Convention will see the pulpits of the churches of Portland occupied by distinguished osteopathic specialists from distant cities who will discuss problems of public health and morals. The week will open officially with a public mass meeting in the Opera House. Dr. R. Kendrick Smith, president of the Boston Browning Society, director of the public education bureau of the national osteopathic organization and well known as a lecturer and writer, will deliver a popular address upon public health. Dr. T. J. Ruddy, professor of ophthalmology at the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons at Los Angeles will give a stereopticon lecture upon the specialty in which he is a recognized authority. Dr. Arthur G. Hildreth, president of the Osteopathic Sanitarium at Macon, Mo., will tell how it has just been discovered that osteopathy cures some kinds of insanity.

The president, Dr. C. A. Upton, of St. Paul, Minn., will preside, and in the technical sessions which began Tuesday, Dr. George Laughlin, the "American Lorenz," as he is known in the Middle West, will open with an explanation of the osteopathic treatment of pneumonia. Dr. Carl P. McConnell, professor of osteopathy in the Chicago College and the pioneer research worker of the profession, might even say its normal gay life.

While the allied fleet and land forces pound away at the Dardanelles and the Russian fleet occasionally shells the Bosphorus forts, twenty miles away, a goodly part of the population of Constantinople gathers every afternoon in the municipal garden, takes tea or Turkish coffee and listens to the magnificent orchestra exactly as in times of peace.

WEEKLY FASHION LETTER.

BY MARGARET MASON.

No longer Sue and Sallie sit And knight and knit and knit On hoisery for soldiers bold They've had enough of it. Now Sue and Sallie sit and rock They've cast aside the sock Their busy fingers now they ply And smock and smock and smock.

New York, July 2.—A frock that hasn't a bit of a smock somewhere puckering its surface isn't worth having. It certainly is shocking the way the smocking has ousted the stocking as a means of handwork among the fair sex these days. Everybody's doing it for since Fashion has lifted up her voice and said "Let there be smocks" there simply isn't anything else to it.

No self-respecting female would think of acceding to the coax "Come into the garden, Maud" without one of the lovely new linen garden smocks in a charming shade of rose, green, blue, or yellow. Not all these adorable smocks are worn within the garden wall either by any manner of means. They are worn where ever the Middy blouse erstwhile held undisputed sway. So even if your own particular garden happens to be only a window box of red geraniums you may still wear one of these fascinating smocks with perfect impunity.

Don't by any means jump to the conclusion that all the smocking is confined to the smocks. Some of our very best summer gowns are simply lavish with it. Apeing the quaint little smocked dresses for kiddies that have long been exported from London for fortunate infants grownups dresses are now smocked in dainty colors on their white organdie or other sheer fabric foundations. Even taffeta frocks and other summer silk relie somely upon smocking as their only garnishment.

Exquisite blouses or organdie and handkerchief linen are honeycombed with smocking in either white or colored threads and now this form of hand-work has even invaded the realm of lingerie and the chemise, petticoat and other essential undergarments of the up-to-date damsel are simply smocked up one side and down the other. You can't go to bed these nights in a manner approved by the mode unless your nightie is daintily smocked in pale blue or pink.

So mock not at the smock, my sisters, but get busy with your little thread and needle and do your smocking early if you would be amongst the smocked flock of fashion's chosen ones.

Lapsing into the slang of the moment you have noticed, Rollo, how every chicken along Broadway now looks like a little bit of Turkey? It's simply the effect of the newest hat, my boy, for its nothing less than a Turkish fez. Not the least bit like a regulation Shriner convention effect, however, except in shape for these newest fads of fezes are mostly fashioned of white satin finished with a pure white silk tassel or else they are of white with a contrasting tassel of some vivid shaded silk or a metallic tassel of gold or silver. You'll be quite about the fezes for some faces but their effect on others will lead you instinctively to look askance for the hand organ.

There is a cruel blow about to descend upon unsuspecting his bands. Like the sword of Demosthenes or what ever his name was it is hanging over them and perhaps it would be an altruistic deed to tip them off and prepare them for the worst. Here goes—Dresses that hook up behind are due here this Fall. "Back to the mines" is as nothing to the slave driving cry of "Mine to the backs" which fashionable females will chant to their cringing spouses ere many monos. With the advent of the shoe that laces up behind it was inevitable that the reversion to back fastening frocks should follow. Anyway husbands have a good long vacation on so its really up to them to grin and bear it. "Twere better for them to remark nonehalantly, smiling cheerily the while, "I'm glad to see you back again, my dear."

WRITES HISTORY OF SUFFRAGE WORK

Will Soon be Presented to Indiana—
 Being Compiled by Harriett Noble.

TWO BOARD MEMBERS QUIT

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, July 2.—Indiana will soon be presented with a history of suffrage activities in Indiana. This work will be compiled by Miss Harriett Noble and will be done at the request of the Indiana Historical commission, which is preparing for the Indiana Continental celebration. This announcement was made today by the Woman's Franchise League of Indiana.

The league also announced the resignation from the board of the league of Mrs. Frank C. Bell of Muncie, because of other engagements, and Mrs. Frank Aydelotte, of Bloomington, who is leaving the state.

The board determined to give full support to the Citizens' league which is entering a vigorous campaign for a new constitution. The women profess to see their greatest hopes in a new constitution.

Remarkable on finances, the announcement today said that the Brazil league had turned $7.75 in for the Suffrage Day fund. Mrs. Cox of Terre Haute announced that the Terre Haute league had netted $85 from a rummage sale for the Hoosier Suffrage Day.

—Mrs. R. M. Colestock of Huston, Tex., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gus Wilkinson of this city, left this morning for a short visit with friends in Grand Rapids, Mich.

MARQUIS TELLS FRENCH SIDE

Says They Have Refrained From Publicity Because They Believe in Justice

TAKES AMERICA AS EXAMPLE

Does Not Approve of Destruction of Arts by Germans And Invasion of Belgium

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
 (U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, May 30: (By Mail to New York)—Deputy Marquis de Chambrun, member of the Committee of Foreign Affairs and great grandson of General LaFayette whose name in American history by the side of George Washington, has been repeatedly asked by American sympathizers with the Allies' cause this question:

"The Germans are using every means to spread their propaganda in the United States. They are sending writers, lecturers, diplomatic representatives and others to tell their side of the story. Why don't you, who speak and write English perfectly and whose name will count for a great deal in our country cross the Atlantic and tell France's side?"

The Marquis, whose wife is an American woman, her name being Miss Margaret Rives Nichols, step-daughter of Bellamy Storer, of Cincinnati, has always modestly replied: France has no need to adopt such methods. Invited by the United Press to write his ideas on the subject, he consented. Here is his article:

BY MARQUIS DE CHAMBRUN
 (Written expressly for the U. P.)

One of the characteristics of the present war is the propaganda made by belligerent nations in neutral countries, through publicity and by various means, in view of enlisting sympathy and gaining moral support. Why then have we refrained from sending propagandists to America for the purpose of influencing public opinion in favor of the Allies? The answer is simple. We rely on the justice of our cause. We have full confidence in the clear sightedness of the American people.

It is indeed difficult for us to separate the United States from the cause of liberty. When France first learned of the struggle for American independence, "her heart was enlisted" and our government was soon obliged to follow the popular feeling aroused by the departure of LaFayette who had spontaneously gone over tonight for the American colonies in open rebellion. Thus the just cause of your independence had awakened in France an irresistible national feeling. In the mind of thinking men the great prestige of the United States abroad still rests on the freedom of her institutions, on the recognized worth of her constitution, even more than on her great material prosperity. We feel sure that it is superfluous, as far as the free citizens of such a republic are concerned, to resort to the petty means of propaganda in the present crisis. From one end of the States to the other it is surely understood that a true and great spirit has lifted up the French people in its effort to resist an unjustified invasion of our territory. It is known that our cause is the cause of liberty.

Those who know America, who have lived in your big towns, frequented your clubs, and who have travelled through the vast area extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, all know that in the United States actions speak louder than words and that the masses as well as the most intellectual circles are not likely to be deceived by specious arguments. The aim and character of the German military party revealed themselves fully when the present war broke out—thirst of power, justification of the means employed by the object to be attained, disregard of individual rights, contempt of treaties, violation of the laws and usages of war. And following on comes the enumeration of actual results; belligerency imposed upon those whose neutrality had been guaranteed, the bombardment of undefended coasts and unarmed cities, the murdering of women and children and non-combatants, the devastation of fertile countries and prosperous industries, the wanton destruction of monuments of history and treasures of art. It will take years to wipe out the stain! When we look upon the many events which, in rapid succession, have taken place during the last eight months, we felt as though we were carried back centuries into the past, and as if the customs established by law-abiding communities had been wiped out of existence.

We, brought up as we have been to revere the memory of men such as Abraham Lincoln, who, while a great war being waged under his administration could still proclaim, that his policy was actuated "with malice towards none and with charity for all," we marvel to witness, in our modern times, backward movement of the world towards a primitive conception of warfare. Fortunately our faith in civilization remains unshaken; and when we think of America, this great, young and beautiful nation, the child of liberty, we know, we feel that there it is unnecessary to plead a cause of justice. We cannot imagine Americans approving the savage invasion of the Belgian provinces by those who had promised to respect and protect their neutrality; we feel sure that the devastation of our rich and industrious provinces in the north and east, the bombardment of cathedrals, churches, town halls and other monuments of art and beauty, the ill treatment of non-combatants and of a defenceless population, arouse general reprobation.

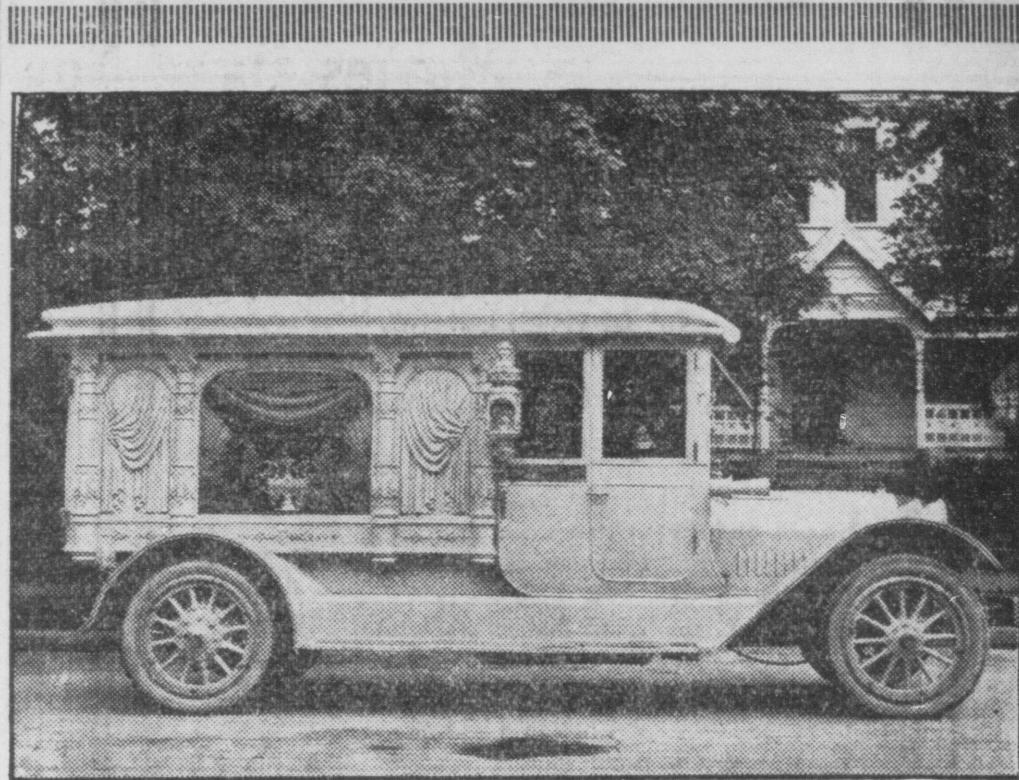

With you the whole philosophy of government rests on principles of justice, the sovereignty of law, the respect and protection of inalienable rights against arbitrary rule or legislation. This conception of organized power has received the solemn adhesion of all your leading men, as well as the consecration of time. For these reasons we have full confidence that the sympathy of all the true Americans will never cease to be with our just cause.

Indiana Law Makes it Possible For Hunters to Shoot Bushy Tails as Much as They Want.

THEY MUST HAVE A LICENSE

Consent of Land Owners is Also Needed—Squirrels Are Reported to be Plentiful.

Every sportsman who likes to shoot squirrels, or at least hunt for them, can now do so to his heart's content, so far as the Indiana law is concerned in the matter. The open season for Mr. Bushy tail opened yesterday and henceforth he will be playing hide and seek around the trunk of a tree while Mr. Hunter tries every known trick to get a shot at him.

Of course, there are some provisions about the law which even the most enthusiastic hunter must respect, notwithstanding that the season is now open. The hunter must first have a license to hunt, but the county clerk is ready to attend to this part of the proceeding at regular rates. The most essential thing, perhaps, is to get the consent of the land owner in whose timber one expects to hunt. This is not always so easy as most of the farmers have their lands posted against trespassers and hunters. They do this, it is said, not so much on account of the game that may be killed, but because they fear that hunters traveling from one farm to another will spread disease among live stock, such as hog cholera and kindred diseases. There is a penalty for any form of trespass if the land is posted and if the farmer wishes to prosecute.

The reports have it that the squirrel crop is a large one this year, but most likely the truth of these reports depend more or less upon the locality from whence it come. There are sections near this city where a hunter could hunt from daylight to nightfall and not find anything bigger than a chigger or one of those slow creeping wood ticks. But there are other places where squirrels are really more or less abundant.

Not very many local hunters went to the woods yesterday or today, as far as is known, though several doubt participated in the sport. Many hunters have already gone to the woods before open season began and got the pick of the lot in the squirrel line. As much as a month ago guns have been heard booming in the woods and it has been reported that many of the young squirrels have fallen before the guns. These kind of hunters are a kind of snipers and their action is much like the fellows who grab for pie before the cook says dinner is ready.

There is no legal limit to the number of squirrels that a hunter can kill in one day. Any weapon can be used, a shot gun, a rifle or a club, and they can be hunted at any time during the day. However, the best time for shooting a squirrel is whenever one can find him.

Little Interest Taken in Indiana Mayor's Association And it May be Disbanded

IS SECOND OF ITS HISTORY

Convened Today in Indianapolis—Mayor Bell is President of Organization.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—When the Indiana Mayor's association convened in the second meeting in its history here today, there were those present who believed the organization would disband. Since the organization was organized a year ago there has been a lack of interest.

One member, who admitted that a show of interest today would result in a continuance of the association said that although several meetings had been called, they had been delayed from time to time, so that this was the first session since the organization meeting. This was only a temporary organization anyway, he said, and the idea had been to organize in a more permanent form if sufficient interest was shown.

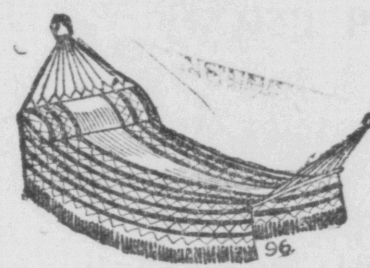

If the association decides to continue, officers for the next year will be elected today. Mayor Joseph E. Bell of this city is now president. A. C. Sallee, the association secretary will retire today as he is no longer associated with municipal affairs. He formerly was Mayor Bell's secretary.

NEVER BEEN PUBLISHED.

The Daily Republican will publish tomorrow a list of Bible quotations which presidents of the United States have kissed at inauguration ceremonies as far back as the second term of President Grant. The Daniel Ryan, pastor of the M. E. church at Glenwood, wondered whether there was such a record in Washington. He felt that it would be a very interesting thing to know, because the quotation a president selected would undoubtedly be some indication of trait of character. He made inquiry of Louis Ludlow, Jr., former Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis Star, whose father resides in Glenwood. Mr. Ludlow made diligent search in Washington and found what the Rev. Mr. Ryan wanted. It will be published for the first time in Saturday's Republican.

Band Concert on Wednesday
Night

"Rushville, where did I ever hear of that place before?" he asked, half speaking to himself. "Oh, I know I played at your chautauqua."

"I don't believe you did," replied the Rushville minister. "We never had but two bands and yours was not one of them."

"Are there stone quarries there," he questioned.

"No," came back the answer, "they are at Bedford."

Soon he came back to Mr Yocum. "I have it now," he said, "I worked on the columns of the court house there twenty years ago."

He did not venture an explanation of how he came to be one of the foremost bandmasters of the country in the intervening twenty years.

POTATOES GROW ON VINE.

Mrs. L. A. Wagoner, of near Gowdy, today brought to Rushville a most unusual potato vine. It grew in a potato patch on the farm of F. F. Reed, who lives across the road from Wagoner's. The singular thing about it is that the potatoes, instead of growing on the roots are beginning to form on the vine. The small potatoes may be seen forming at almost every joint where a branch leaves the main stem.

Committees Are Authorized to Boost Auto Route From Here to Cincinnati Today.

BROOKVILLE CROWD HERE

"Dixie Short Line" is Official Name Adopted—to Get in the Automobile Guides.

A committee from the Brookville Commercial club and the automobile routes committee of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce will co-operate in marking the "Dixie Short Line" and will also see that the road through Indianapolis, New Palestine, Rushville, Brookville to Cincinnati gets a place on the road maps.

This was authorized this afternoon at the joint meeting of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce and the Brookville Commercial club in the assembly room of the court house. The two committees were also given power to solicit the aid of the smaller towns along the route that do not have commercial clubs.

The Brookville men agreed with the Rushville people that the short route between Cincinnati and Indianapolis should be listed in the auto guides and this will be one of the first things taken up by the two bodies. They will co-operate and it was believed by those present that in the next editions of the "Blue Book" and other auto guides the "Dixie Short Line" will be listed. The advantages of this route was pointed out at the meeting this afternoon. Among the speakers were M. P. Hubbard, John C. Shirk, I. N. Bridgeman, of Brookville and several Rushville men.

The name, "Dixie Short Line" was suggested by Brookville and was adopted. The name is not an infringement on the name "Dixie Highway." Another of the things agreed on was that the two commercial bodies should use their influence to see that the road was placed in good repair. There is said to be one stretch of the road, about nine miles in length, between Metamora and Brookville, that is in need of repair and the Brookville men stated that plans were not on foot to fix this road.

State Senator Eichman, of New Palestine, was present and in a brief talk assured the meeting that New Palestine would co-operate in the movement.

With their automobiles plastered up with signs bearing the inscription, "Dixie Short Line, Indianapolis to Cincinnati Via Rushville, Brookville, Harrison," approximately forty good roads boosters came here this afternoon for the meeting in the court house assembly room for the purpose of placing the "short line" auto route from Indianapolis to Cincinnati "on the map."

The Brookville men are enthusiastic over the project and hope to get the road in the Blue Book, the official guide for motorists, as well as getting all the turns marked as guides to automobilists and placing signs along the road to let tourists know they are on the right road.

"We can't call it the Dixie Highway," said one Brookville man, "but we hit on the next best thing—the Dixie Short Line."

The Brookville Commercial club has had considerable correspondence with the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce, which is one of the promoters of the Dixie Short Line.

AIRSHIP SINKS A "SUB"

Second Time in Naval History, Under-Sea Boat is Sent Down

(By United Press.)
Rome, July 2.—A French aviator bombarded and sunk the Austrian submarine U-11 in the Adriatic, the ministry of marine announced today. This is the second time in naval history that a submarine has been sunk by an aeroplane. The Austrian U-11 was one of the newest of the Austrian submarines and displaced about 800 tons. She was supposed to carry a crew of about twenty-five men.

TAYLORS TAKEN TO PENAL FARM

Father and Son Leave For Greencastle to Begin Sentences of Six months—Fined $500.

CHESTER ALMOST ESCAPES

Sheriff Cavitt, accompanied by Elmer Caldwell, who acted as a deputy sheriff, left this morning for the state penal farm, near Greencastle, with Alfred Taylor and Chester Taylor, convicted "bootleggers," where they will begin serving sentences of six months each and will also lay out fines of $500.

Chester Taylor nearly made an escape from the jail last night. The keys were left in the door to the main corridor of the jail and the boy in some manner got hold of them and let himself out into the main hall leading from the jail to the sheriff's residence. He was in the hall of the residence and about to get out the front door when he was discovered and placed back in a cell.

The commitment papers for the two were made out yesterday afternoon and Sheriff Cavitt made arrangements to take the two today. Opinion as to whether Chester Taylor would remain at the state farm was about equally divided today, some holding that he would not be there two days while others said he would serve out his time. Counting the fines and sentence, both will be at the farm for almost two years.

FOUR VESSELS ARE SUBMARINE VICTIMS

German Torpedoes Find Lodgement in Quartet of British Ships During the Night.

WORST SINCE THE LUSITANIA

(By United Press.)
London, July 2.—German U boats during the night made their biggest haul since the torpedoing of the Lusitania. They sent to the bottom the big British steamer Caucasian and the liner Inglemoor, whose combined tonnage exceeded that of the Armenian.

The big British steamer Welsburg and the British schooner L. C. Tower were other submarine victims reported to the admiralty today.

The Inglemoor was the largest and one of the newest vessels of the Moor line of twenty-eight trans-oceanic liners. She was completed only two years ago and fitted out as a modern passenger and cargo boat. The Caucasian was one of the largest boats of the fleet owned by the Petroleum Steamship company.

ACTION TODAY UNLIKELY

Sayville Wireless Station Denies Handling Un-Neutral Messages.

(By United Press.)
Washington, July 2.—In the absence of Secretary of the Navy Daniels and with Assistant Roosevelt in the hospital following his appendicitis operation, immediate action concerning the Sayville wireless station seemed unlikely today. The station management had filed a denial of charge that it has handled un-neutral business.

—James Meek, Jr., left this morning for Cherryville, Kansas, to visit his aunt, Mrs. James Imel.

BANK ACCOUNT IS NOT CUT DOWN

County Funds Lessened Very Little Because June Settlement Was Not Made Until Late

TOTAL $217,131.04 DEPOSITED

This includes $11,207.41 in Outstanding Warrants And $42,583.11 in Road Bonds

The monthly report of the county treasurer to the county board of finance shows that Rush county had a total on deposit in the various banks and trust companies of the county of $217,131.04 at the close of business June 30. Due to the fact that the June settlement was not made until late in the month the amount of the county funds was not cut down to any great extent.

This total includes $11,207.41 in outstanding warrants and also $42,583.11 in road bonds at the Peoples National bank and $16,872.68 in bonds at the Rushville National bank. (The county received a total of $533.07 in interest from the deposits. The amount in each of the institutions is as follows:

SUBMARINE FEAR CAUSES A MUTINY

Three Members of Crew of Norwegian Bark Abyssinia Wounded Before Riot is Quelled.

QUEENSTOWN POLICE HELP

(By United Press.)
Queenstown, July 2.—Fearing attack by German submarines, the crew of the Norwegian bark Abyssinia mutinied today while the ship was lying in the harbor here.

In a bloody battle on the deck, officers shot three of the mutineers, wounding two fatally. Queenstown police ran alongside in a harbor boat boarded the vessel and quelled the disturbance. The Abyssinia was still in the harbor this afternoon.

DEATH IS UNEXPECTED

Rawlind Davis, Age 65, Dies at Home North of Raleigh.

Rawlind Davis, 65 years old, died yesterday afternoon at his home, north of Raleigh, after several months' illness, from heart disease and other complications. Mr. Davis was not believed to be in a serious condition, however, and his death came rather unexpectedly. He is survived by his widow and four children, Mrs. Owen Sweet and Mrs. Ethel Wright, of this city, Mrs. Goldie Parker and Verne Davis. The funeral services will be conducted Sunday morning at ten o'clock in the Raleigh Christian church and burial will take place in the cemetery there.

MONDAY THE FIFTH TO BE CELEBRATED

Practically Every Business House in the City Will be Closed all or Part of Day.

NOT A WHEEL TO TURN AT P. O.

July the fifth will generally be celebrated here this year because the Fourth falls on Sunday. Most of the stores will be closed all day and some of them part of the day. The banks will all be closed and the postoffice will close up shop Saturday evening not to open again until Tuesday morning.

"We are not going to turn a wheel this year," said an employee at the postoffice this morning.

It is the only legal holiday of the year that the postoffice is not open until ten o'clock in the morning and one delivery is made on the city routes. The rural mail carriers never go over their routes on legal holidays.

All union barber shops and all blacksmith shops will be closed all day. The Benson delivery company has announced that only one delivery will be made Monday at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

NO PAPER THE FIFTH

The Daily Republican will not be published next Monday, the fifth of July, because that is the day which will generally be celebrated as the Fourth of July, since the holiday

SAY DEPARTURE IS "TIPPED OFF"

British Admiralty Has Definite Reports Sailing of Vessels is Sent to Submarine Commanders.

FIVE ARE SUNK DURING NIGHT

On One is Painting Warning That She Will Never Reach England—Precautions to be Taken.

BY ED L. KEENE.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, July 2.—With the renewal on a large scale of submarine operations around the British Isles, definite reports reached the admiralty this afternoon that the departure of British vessels from North American ports was being "tipped off" to German submarine commanders.

The sinking of three big British steamers, the Inglemoor, Caucasian and Welsburg, and of at least two sailing vessels, was confirmed by the admiralty.

But the greatest interest was shown in the story of the Welsburg's crew that her departure from Cuba with a cargo of sugar for England was made known to German submarine commanders who lay in wait and attacked her as she was approaching the British coast. The crew found this painted on the ship.

"You have a cargo of sugar for England. You'll never get there."

Cable dispatches from New York reported rumors of similar threats against the White Star liner Adriatic, bound for Liverpool, with a passenger list that includes many persons of prominence both here and in Canada and eight Americans. It was recalled that similar rumors preceded the departure of the Lusitania from New York.

It was deemed certain here that extraordinary precautions would be taken to protect the liner through the war zone. For several weeks rumors have reached officials here that submarine operations were directed by information received in America.

George Smalley has purchased the O. C. Brann barn in East Second street and has moved his equipment from his old location, corner of First and Perkins streets. Mr. Smalley will do a general livery business in connection with his feed barn.

J. Arnold Tells Something About Only Man Ever Hung In Rush County In Old Letters Published Here 40 Years Ago

(Editor Republican: So much interest and comment has been aroused by the publication of the items about Edward I. Swanson in the Daily Republican that I have decided to ask you to reprint the description of the event written by my father, Dr. John Arnold, under the heading of Reminiscences of an Old Settler.)

Arnold Home, February 25, 1875.
Friend Editor: There are few of your readers who do not know that Edward Swanson was executed in Rushville for the murder of Elisha

Clark, but beyond his crime and its punishment, but little or nothing is known of this man, and I propose in this paper to tell all those matters relating to him, which I know and which I deem would be interesting. He was a man of mystery, for though known as pre-eminent in woodcraft, successful as a hunter, and famous for his hostility to the Indian race, and the cunning and savage way in which he pursued them, yet no one knew from whence he came or what his antecedents; but enough was known to prove that his early years had not been passed in the wild woods of the west. He had a considerable acquaintance with literature and a great fondness for reading, two things never found in the native-back-woodsmen. These traits led to my first acquaintance with him sometime in the year 1822.

My father, who was of literary taste, brought with him to this

EVERYBODY Enjoys Life Here!

It is a real joy to look at those new summer Palm Beach Suits that are attracting so much attention at our store.

It is a greater joy to try them on, and admire their fit, and workmanship and general appearance.

But the greatest joy of all comes in the wearing, in the mental and bodily satisfaction of a suit which combines all of the elegance of the manufacturer's art with solid comfort on the hottest of summer days.

Every suit looks well, feels well and wears well, and the price is a minor consideration.

And they fit all people and all pocketbooks.

Where Presidents Name Governors. Alexander Hamilton was defeated in his attempt to give the president of the United States the power to appoint the governors of the states. In Spanish-American countries his ideal is generally realized.

The president of Colombia appoints the governor of each department, and the governor appoints the prefects and mayors. The president of Peru appoints the prefects, these the sub-prefects, and the latter name the governors. Reports flow up this official staircase, and orders flow down, so that the whole administration dances to Lima's piping.

In Chile there is a complete chain from president through intendant, governor and subdelegate to inspector. There are municipal councils for cities, but nowhere is there a place for the county, as we know it, electing its own prosecutor, judge and sheriff.—Edward Alsworth Ross in Century Magazine.

The Bulbs Went Astray.

The growth of bulbs is an important industry to Holland, as from Haarlem the markets of the world obtain their supply.

It is told of Said Pasha, who had a great love for flowers, that he placed an order in Holland for a choice assortment of these bulbs, for which he paid $5,000. When the bulbs arrived his "secretary of the interior," who received them, not knowing of the bulb order, sidetracked them to the kitchen. Soon after their arrival the pasha was to give an important banquet, and his chief cook, wishing to serve an especial treat, grilled the new variety of onions and served them hot. Evidently as an article of food they did not prove a success since the only comment the record of the incident made, of the result was that pasha's interest in gardening received a severe body blow.—National Geographic Magazine.

LOCUST IS BACK AFTER 17 YEARS

Only Slight Damage Has Resulted

However From Visit of Brood

VI of The Cicada.

IS AN UNWELCOME INSECT

Prairie Dogs, Rabbits And Crawfish

Grouped as "Undesirables"

by Department

(By United Press.)

Washington, June 30.—After a welcome absence of 17 years, Brood VI of the cicada is visiting old friends in Northern and Central states, between the Hudson and Mississippi rivers and the interior counties of Atlantic coast states as far south as the upper part of Georgia. Brood VI is the well-known 17-year locust. He's been away since 1898 and when he departs this time along about the beginning of July, he'll not be expected back before 1932. And he won't be missed, for as any farmer can tell you, he's a tangle nuisance.

The peculiar habit that gives this insect his name causes it to arouse great interest each time it reappears. Also it arouses fear for the safety of trees; but, as a matter of fact the actual damage done is slight, accomplished by the female of species, which is deadlier than the male. The female cuts the bark of the tree to make a deposit for her eggs.

A careful canvass of the whole cicada area was made by the bureau of Entomology with the assistance of State Entomologists in 1898. These reports caused Michigan and Wisconsin to be included in the territory that has reason to expect the visitor each time he comes for wherever he's been for 17 years.

Ordinary repellent substance, such as kerosene emulsion or carbolic acid solutions, seem to have very little effect in preventing the depositing of eggs, but recent experiences with Bordeaux mixture or lime wash show them to be fairly effective. The cicada avoid trees sprayed with these preparations, especially if there are other trees in the neighborhood.

The most reliable means of protecting nurseries or young orchards is by collecting the insects in bags or umbrellas from the trees in early morning or late evening, when they are somewhat torpid. Such collections should be undertaken at the first appearance of the cicada and repeated each day.

If pruning is made necessary by the female insect's ravages the worst affected branches should be removed. The less injured limbs may be coated on the wounded parts with grafting wax or moderately hard soap. These protective coverings should be renewed at least once a year, preferably in the spring, until the wounds are healed over entirely. It may be expedient in the case of a badly wounded recently budded or grafted tree, to cut it back nearly to the bud or graft, so that an entirely new top may be made.

In the case of older trees the main object of treatment is to secure the rapid healing of the wounds and prevent their being used as points for secondary infection by other insects. The worst injured trees in such trees should also be cut out, so that all the vigor of the plant may be directed to the remaining wood. The process may be accelerated by thorough cultivation and the use of fertilizers on the land about the trees attacked.

Prairie dogs, jack rabbits ground squirrels, and crawfish are now grouped together under the head of "undesirable citizens" and extensive campaigns for their speedy extermination in many parts of the country have been conducted by the Bureau of Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture.

War was declared on the prairie dogs after they had made themselves obnoxious by interfering with the projects of the United States Reclamation Service in the west. The burrowing rodents have caused extensive washouts in dikes and fills, resulting in heavy damage, in the Strawberry Valley Project of the Reclamation Service near Provo, Utah. The campaign against them has already resulted in their complete extermination over large areas in Colorado, Arizona, and Utah. Most of them were killed by poison, and predatory birds and animals exterminated those remaining.

In Oregon and Washington, investigations are being made with a view of dealing with moles which have been interfering seriously with the cultivation of crops.

As a result of campaigns against the ground squirrels in portions of California National Forests, ranchmen and land owners have been encouraged to co-operate with the bureau and also to carry on independent campaigns. As a consequence, on thousands of acres which once supported squirrels in abundance, it is now difficult to find more than an occasional animal. Similarly, successful poison baits were prepared for the Richardson ground squirrel, which has become extremely destructive in North Dakota.

Other experiments have dealt with the extermination of rodents which hinder reforestation by digging up and devouring seeds or gnawing the bark of saplings. Special experiments were conducted in the national forest near Ocala, Florida, and at the Converse nursery in Southern California.

In response to requests for aid from farmers in southern Idaho and eastern Oregon and Washington, the department has assisted in destroying jack rabbits which have been doing heavy damage. In one small region, by the use of extermination baits, over 50,000 rabbits were destroyed.

Experiments also have been conducted in destroying crawfish, which do great damage in Mississippi and Alabama.

The Cruel Schoolmaster.

An indignant mother wrote thus to the principal of an academy:

Dear Sir—My son writes me that he has to study too hard. He says he has to translate fifty hexameters of Latin a day. I looked "hexameter" up in the dictionary and find it is a poetic verse of six feet. Now, that makes 300 feet, or 100 yards of poetry for my poor son to translate each day. I think about half a hexameter or six inches of this Latin is enough for a boy of his age. Yours truly,

Amusements

The Gem will show a two reel Charles Chaplin comedy entitled "The Rounders" for the first picture tonight. Chaplin is said to be shown at his best in this comedy and it is one of the best he has appeared in. The other is a two reel drama "The Whirling Disk." Cleo Madison and Joe King are featured and it is said to be a remarkable drama. Tomorrow night the feature picture "Mavis of the Glen" featuring Bob Leonard and Ella Hall will be shown.

The Princess offers a three reel feature "Out of the Ruins" for the program tonight. Mabel Trunnell and Gladys Hulett are featured. One of the thrilling scenes is a fire scene that is said to be a very realistic. The thrilling rescues add to the make up of the picture. Tomorrow night Charles Chaplin will be seen in his great comedy "Those Love Pangs" will be shown.

The Mystic will show the big six reel feature "The Littlest Rebel" for tonight. William and Dustin Farnum and E. K. Lincoln are featured and it is taken from the stage success of the same name. The scenes are laid in the south and are said to be very beautiful. A comedy entitled "The Happy Man" will also be shown.

Failures of Soldiers' Armor.

Many years ago several inventors developed bullet proof cloths or breast-plates, and in spite of much advertising their suggestions were never adopted, much to the surprise of civilians. The reason is very simple. If the bullet is stopped its energy is transmitted to the shield, which in turn delivers a blow to the soldier's body. The severity of the blow depends upon the velocity of the bullet, and if the shield is very light the chest wall receives more or less injury. In order to be effective the shield must weigh at least ten pounds. It is a repetition of the old circus trick of striking with a sledgehammer an anvil on a man's chest. If in place of the anvil we substitute a thin metal plate the blow would be fatal, and the sledgehammer has about the same energy as a bullet at high velocity. If the shield weighs but six or eight pounds the blow of the bullet almost knocks a man down. Soldiers are not to wear armor, but to get behind it, as in armored ships, forts and motorcars. —London Tatler.

California Roads.

In his book "At the End of the Trail" E. A. Powell, F. R. G. S., pays the following tribute to California road building: "I am convinced that if the several thousand Americans who go on annual motor trips through Europe, either taking their cars with them or hiring them on the other side, could only be made to realize that on the edge of the western ocean they can find roads as smooth and well built as the English highways or the routes nationales of France, and mountains as high and sublimely beautiful as the Alps or the Pyrenees, and scenery more varied and lovely than is to be found between Christiania and Capri, and vegetation as luxuriant and hotels more luxurious than on the Cote d'Azur, and a milder, sunnier, more equable climate than anywhere else on the globe, they would come pouring out in such numbers that there wouldn't be garages enough to hold their cars."

Young Conquerors.

Napoleon said that a man ages quickly on battlefields. Speaking of one of his generals, he said at Austerlitz that Ordener was worn out, adding: "One has a short time for war. I am good for another six years, and then I shall have to stop."

"Strangely enough," says Lord Rosebery in "The Last Phase," "his judgment was exactly verified. Six years and a month from Austerlitz (which was fought on Dec. 2, 1805) would have brought him to 1812, to the Russian campaign, which, if he had observed his own rule, he would have avoided."

When his "star" was eclipsed for ever at Waterloo he was but forty-six years of age, but he had been a broken man in body, and to an increasing extent in mental power, long before. Wellington fought his last battle at forty-six, Ney at forty-five, Nelson at forty-seven. Alexander the Great was only thirty-three when death ended his career of conquest. Hannibal was in his forty-sixth year when he was finally defeated at Zama by Scipio.

A Pair of Eminent Grave Diggers.

The profession have a saying that parts make actors. When the $20,000 benefit to Lester Wallack was given in New York, with one of the historic "Hamlet" casts of the century, the public, of course, expected to see a performance that could never be forgotten because of its all round greatness. There was disappointment for the expectant innocents. All star casts want proportion, and this particular performance of the sublime tragedy was "queer."

For example, Joseph Jefferson and William J. Florence played the grave-diggers, and in their dressing room after Horatio's "there crack'd a noble heart," Mr. Jefferson said to his companion: "Billy, whose lines were you speaking, anyway?" "Bacon's, I guess," Florence replied. "Perhaps," mused gentle Joe. "I knew they weren't Shakespeare's." —Detroit Free Press.

The Firlinfoens.

At Brianza, in Lombardy, there flourishes a very curious sort of band, all the members of which play the same kind of instrument, known as the "firlinfoens." This corresponds to what we know as "panpipes" and is constructed of reeds fastened side by side, the bass pipes being often several feet long, while the others gradually decrease in size.

The "firlinfoens," as the players are called, after their instruments, are as a rule ignorant of music and they learn their tunes by ear, often from a phonograph. It is said that the panpipe players experience all the sensations of intoxication after a march due to the energetic blowing and the constant wagging of the head to and fro. The music, although conveying to the stranger at first a most curious effect, is said to be not unpleasant. —Washington Star.

The March to Mecca.

The great caravan which every year sets out from Cairo for Mecca has a conductor on a camel leading the way. Day and night, whatever the weather is, he remains without any covering, naked to the waist. With him march men with large torches, which are kept alight during the night and illuminate the column of smoke above them, so that it appears a pillar of fire. During the day, when the head of the caravan is difficult to see on account of intervening hills and mounds of sand, the torches are kept burning, so that instead of the light which served during the night a column of smoke indicates to the straggling caravan from afar the direction of the march and the time and place of a halt.

The Professor's Reproof.

During a certain athletic event at a big university the students of a certain professor's class, well aware that their studies had been neglected, were prepared for reproof, but not for just the way in which it came. At the end of the hour the professor slammed down his book on the desk and exclaimed: "That's the worst recitation I ever listened to. Why, I've actually done nine-tenths of it myself." —Exchange.

Repudiated.

"I'm a self made man," said Mr. Cumrox. "Didn't your wife have something to do with your career?" "She used to say so. But after seeing how I behave in society she refuses to take any of the blame." —Brooklyn Citizen.

Two Definitions.

Bobby—Pop, what is reason? Fond Parent—Reason, my boy, is that which enables a man to determine what is right. Bobby—And what is instinct? Fond Parent—Instinct is that which tells a woman she is right whether she is or not. —Exchange.

Reciprocity.

EFFORTS MADE TO RELIEVE FAMINE

Twelve Car Loads of Corn Are Star-ted Towards Mexico City as Means to Restore Order.

HUERTA MAY NOT BE GIVEN UP

(By United Press.) Washington, July 2.—Desperate efforts were being made today to relieve the Mexico City famine. Thus only, it was believed could order be restored and foreigners saved from grave danger. Consul Silliman notified the state department that twelve car loads of corn in charge of an American, were forwarded from Vera Cruz Thursday to the point where the Vera Cruz-Mexico City railroad line is broken. Carranza officials and railroad officers promised to do all in their power to get the shipment into the capital. That the United States will comply with General Villa's request for General Huerta's surrender to him on charges of complicity to murder the late President Madero and Vice-president Suarez in Mexico was deemed unlikely here today.

"My boy," said the successful merchant, "never let your capital lie idle. Remember that money talks, but it doesn't talk in its sleep." —Boston Transcript.

Hays Make Pledge.

In a public speech at Anderson recently Chairman Will H. Hays, of the Republican State Central Committee made the following appeal and pledge to those voters in Indiana who are figuring on affiliating with the Republican party in the campaign of 1916:

"All those good citizens who voted other tickets, and especially those who were affiliated with the Progressive party last year and who have not yet come with their friends in the Republican party, are again most earnestly and sincerely urged to join our fighting force and become a potent part of the party of protection and prosperity, with an equal voice in the management of the party's affair with every other man in the party.

"As here and now we greet these good friends who are with us, with that peculiar pleasure, that strength of hand and warmth of heart that comes only with the reunion of strong spirits in a perfect understanding, so here and now we renew to all our pledge that the rights of individuals within the party to a full participation in the party's activities shall be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal. This is the party's solemn promise. Its fulfillment shall be our most earnest, constant aim.

"The solution of the entire matter is now solely a question of patriotism. We are approaching a period in our industrial and national life second to none in complexity and in most serious importance. The country looks to the Republican party to meet it. It has never failed in such a crisis. It will not fail now—but there is a tremendous work to do. To aid in this is duty. The country needs the Republican party and what his country needs it is the duty of every man to give. The country needs the party; and the party wants these men. To them all I say, let us be constructors, not obstructionists. Let us do this work together. Come."

HOOSIER HISTORY

HOOSIER HISTORY BOX
(Prepared by the United Press from Records in the State Library)

Uncle Sam, himself, was a victim of "frenzied finance" in 1882 when one of the first state banks, that at Vincennes failed. The United States government lost more than $160,000 the proceeds on land sales.

Of the fourteen branches which were proposed to the state bank at Vincennes only three were ever organized. These were at Brookville, Corydon and Vevay. Indianapolis, now the Hoosier Metropolis, did not have a bank until 1832.

country a well selected library of several hundred volumes of standard works on history, philosophy, natural history, poetry and general belles-lettres. Swanson, as soon as he learned this fact sedulously cultivated the acquaintance of my father so as to obtain the loan of his books. My father cheerfully loaned him his books and took much interest in his tales of hunter's life and the recital of conflicts with Indians. He was a blood-thirsty man and hated the whole race with a perfect hatred, boasted that he had killed many a one in time of peace as well as war whenever an opportunity presented for doing it in safety. He used to boast that he showed plenty of bones of Indians in this country who had fallen by his hand. It appears that he had come to the west early in the present century and had had his share of adventures. As a woodman he could scarcely be excelled; it seemed more like instinct than reason, the certainty with which he could traverse the pathless forest, by day or by night; the desired direction was all he required.

In the year 1823, my father being entirely unacquainted with the process of sugar making, proposed that they should join together and make a partnership. They accordingly opened a camp on the school section, where there were a great abundance of fine sugar trees. This was about three miles from my father's and still further from Swanson's. They took provisions with them sufficient to last for several days, so that they would not have to return home during the run. Whenever they would get all of the water boiled down, they would start frequently late at night and very dark, and at that time the woods were dense with spicebrush, rendering it still more difficult to keep a straight course, but it made no difference with Swanson, he always struck the northeast corner of my father's clearing. If there were no stars visible, he kept his course by feeling the moss on the trees; you are no doubt aware that it grows more luxuriantly on the north side.

I will mention here a little incident

that occurred illustrating a particular trait in his character, show that though he feared nothing human he was superstitious and troubled at the supernatural. One night they were boiling very late, their fire beside a large log giving a bright light, when they heard the rustling of leaves and saw what they first thought a dog approaching along a well worn Indian path passing within a few rods of and within the full light of their fire, but which they presently saw a large panther. It passed slowly, deliberately, not even turning its head to look at them, giving no signs of either of fear or anger.

My father expressed his astonishment at its boldness in coming so near them in the strong glare of the fire, as such animals usually fear it. Swanson replied that it was not a real panther, but the spirit of some Indian he had slain, and had taken this form to manifest itself to him, but for what purpose he knew not. He was then and ever afterward unwilling to discuss the subject.

He was once taken prisoner by Ben Davis' band and held for some time in captivity in this village, a short distance from where I now live but his cunning and knowledge of Indian character enabled him to escape. He was personally unknown to his captors, who had no idea they held one of their most dangerous foes. The Indians would frequently invite him to shoot at a mark, which he invariably missed; when they took him with them on their hunts; he never could kill anything; he also took pains to carry wood and water for the squaws; all these things excited their contempt and convinced them that he was no warrior, and they had no fear that so poor a hunter would try to escape. Finally the warriors had all gone away on some expedition, leaving none but the old men, women and children when Swanson, equipping himself with a rifle, tomahawk and knife, struck a bee line for the nearest settlement, where he arrived in safety, having traveled night and day. I will here note the fact that he was one of the best marksmen on the frontier and his awkwardness in the use of the rifle was a cunning ruse to deceive the Indians.

To illustrate his innate ferocity, I will relate some incidents I have frequently heard him tell. At one time when there was peace between the Indians and whites, an irrepressible desire to kill one of the hated race seized him, and he determined at all hazards to gratify his inclination in this particular. Accordingly, with his deadly rifle on his shoulder, his tomahawk and long hunting knife at his side and carrying a small sack of dried venison and parched corn, he set out for one of the White river towns. Arriving after night, he secreted himself behind a log in a dense pawpaw thicket, his ambush commanding a much used Indian path. Here, in the confident assurance that the first solitary Indian that passed this road would fall an easy victim to his vengeance, he lay and watched three days and night in vain, for it so happened that though many passed, there were always two or more together, and if he had shot one, an immediate alarm would have been given and a relentless pursuit followed, and as he had no desire to lose his own scalp, he did not shoot. His provisions being exhausted and not daring to shoot game, for he said the Indians should at once detect that it was the report of a white man's rifle by the wonderful nicety of hearing peculiar to the savage, he was obliged to return home without the gratification of having another of the hated red men. He always spoke with regret of the cruel disappointment.

He had a congenial associate, a brother-in-law named Myers, as keen a hunter and unsparing an Indian fighter as himself. In my earliest recollections of him, he was a squatter in the poplar grove, about a mile west of Williams Creek, and a little south of the Connorsville and Rushville turnpike. Physically, he was powerful and active, morally, unscrupulous and dangerous. On one of their hunting expeditions they fell in with a man who told them that he had discovered a silver mine, and who agreed after much persuasion and some threats to show it to them. He took them down to the southern part of the state, and after winding about through innumerable ravines and climbing steep and rocky hills for a day or two, told them he could not find it. This made them extremely angry, for they were convinced that the alleged discovery was an idle boast made to deceive, or if real, he had determined not to allow them to share in its advantages, so one morning they told him if he did not find it that day, that he would never return to the settlement. At this point Swanson always stopped as if the tale was told; if any one, not satisfied with such an impotent conclusion, inquired if he showed them the silver mine, Swanson would reply that he had not; and if curiosity prompted further questioning as to what became of him, he would reply evasively, though suggestively, that he was never afterwards seen in the settlement, leaving his hearers to draw their own inferences.

His wife was a suitable companion for him. She was a sister of the Myers just mentioned, and when Swanson married her, was a widow by the name of Conn. He had formed an acquaintance with the family during her husband's lifetime and was a frequent visitor at their cabin in the wilderness. Business compelled Conn to go back to his old home, I think in North Carolina, but he never again saw wife or child. He was last seen when only a day's journey from home, well mounted and with saddlebags under him which contained a considerable sum of money in silver. But he never reached home and all search and inquiry failed to dispel the mystery of his fate. In a short time Swanson married the widow, and they were many, who, knowing how unscrupulous and reckless of human life he had always been, believed that he could, if he would, tell more about the missing man than anyone else.

I have always thought that Swanson was brought up and educated in some of the old settled states, but having committed some bloody deed, fled to the frontier for concealment and safety and that having found the wild adventurous life of the wilderness congenial to his tastes, had adopted it, forever renouncing the milder pleasure of civilization.

When I first saw him he was probably over fifty years old, a little above the average height, slender but muscular, quick in his motions; his complexion had been originally fair, but constant exposure to the elements had bronzed it; his hair was thin and light colored; his eyes a cold gray, but his most striking peculiarity was his immense bushy eyebrows, almost white, which he had a trick of drawing down when excited, and which gave to his countenance a most savage and sinister expression. He had the walk characteristic of both the red and white hunter; that is he lifted his foot high bringing it down lightly but firmly, which prevents the rustling produced among dry leaves by the usual mode of walking. This style of walking seems very peculiar to the uninitiated. Another hunter's habit was his constant watchfulness, his eyes continually turning to the right and left, as if he was in an enemy's country momentarily expecting attack.

I will conclude this paper next week, by giving the particulars of that deed by which he is best known to the community, the murder of Clark.

Respectfully,
J. ARNOLD

SERVICE

Of the three essentials—strength, organization and service—afforded to clients of this Bank, SERVICE is not the least important.

The Bank's entire organization is permeated with the spirit of service. It is not enough to accept and safeguard the banking and trust business of clients; every effort is put forth to be of additional active service, within the Bank's proper sphere.

For example, the Bank, if appointed custodian of securities, will as agent sign ownership certificates required by the Federal Income Tax Law, collect dividends and coupons promptly as they mature, and either credit or remit the proceeds to the client; and will promptly notify him should any "rights" or other subscription privileges attach to the securities held.

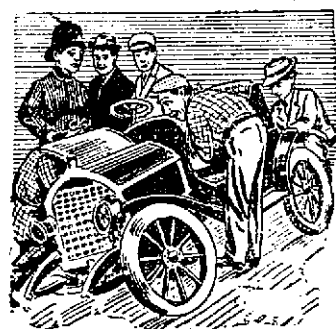

Another example, clients are welcome to the Bank's facilities for investment and for investigating and analyzing the value of securities.

Many other examples of special service to clients might be mentioned, all of which would help to explain the rapid and substantial growth of this Bank's business.

By beating Newcastle Sunday the Rushers have a chance to come home in first place as the Maxwells are now leading the league. Also if Rushville wins and Connersville wins Newcastle will be forced into third place. There are several "ifs" connected with all this and it remains to be seen just what will actually happen.

One thing is certain, Rushville is going to Newcastle to give them a battle and if the team does not win the fans will always think they should. It is safe to say that the Rushers will be the fastest team Newcastle has faced this season. Hewitt will oppose Walters and this alone should mean a pretty battle.

There will be no changes in the Rushville lineup unless Humpty Badel gets in from the Coal league. Humpty told Manager Davidson he would try and get back for the Newcastle game and the fans are pulling for him to get in on time. Badel will add much strength to the team's hitting and fielding. If Badel gets back he will be played in right field. The fans all like Humpty and he adds a lot of pep to the game.

George Rohe will again be seen on first base and Lancke on third. Reggy will play short and Schlenker second. A great crowd of Rushville rooters are expected to make the trip and pull for a Rushville win. The special train leaves over the Lake Erie at 12:30 o'clock. Many auto parties will also make the trip and from all indications Rushville will be well represented at the Rose City.

Manager Ritter is figuring on getting out the band and meeting the Rushville train. If Ritter would have saved the band until Monday he might get out a crowd large enough to play the Rushers on this day instead of calling it off.

TWO RUSHERS HITTING BALL

George Rohe Stinging Old Pill For .428 and Bob Goodfellow Finds it For .363.

BOTH WELL TOWARDS FRONT

In Averages Announced Today Rushville Team Continues to Lead in Fielding.

In the list of Indiana State league averages announced today Rushville has two men well towards the head of the list. These two are George Rohe, the Rushers star first baseman and Bob Goodfellow, the stellar catcher. Rohe is hitting the ball for .428 and Goodfellow is hitting her out for a total of .363.

These are the only two Rushville players hitting over .300 in the three games of the league. Goodfellow and Rohe have put the team to the front by their work in the past two games. Lancke, the Rushers third baseman, in the one game he has played hit for .250. Cordes is hitting at .181 and Hellmund is hitting at .100. Both of these are due to increase their average as they just started finding the ball last Sunday.

Dunlap, of Newcastle, Mollenkamp, of Cambridge City and Bartley, of Connersville are the real league leaders in the batting line. Dunlap is hitting for .555; Mollenkamp at .500 and Bartley at .500. Then comes our own George Rohe and Steele of Newcastle. In the list Goodfellow is ninth and is tied with Keitel of Connersville.

The Rushers are still at the bottom of the list in team batting. The team as a whole is batting .167. This average was increased over last week by the game Sunday with Richmond. The Rushville team is only five points below Cambridge City in team batting. The league is being led by Richmond with an average of .256. Connersville and Newcastle are tied at .250 and are followed by Cincinnati at .182.

The Rushville team continues to lead the league in fielding. The team has had a total of 81 putouts, 48 assists with only 4 errors. In the three league games included in the averages only one home run has been hit. Weikle of Connersville gets this honor. Richmond has 3 three-base hits to its credit. In two base hits Newcastle had made five; Richmond four; Connersville, three; Rushville three and Cambridge City one.

INDICTMENT HAS ONE NEW COUNT

No. 25 Was Not Included in the Terre Haute Cases—Regards Outside Intimidation

NOT KNOWN TO GRAND JURY

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—If count No. 25 in the Indianapolis election—corruption conspiracy indictment is proved, Indianapolis will have added a new one to the list of election crimes—that is, one that wasn't uncovered in the Terre Haute election corruption trial in the Federal court.

The allegation is that inspectors and election judges allowed "numerous persons to the grand jury unknown" to go within the railings where the voting machines were situated and there intimidate and compel duly qualified voters not to vote or to vote differently than they desired.

In Terre Haute men went in and voted for qualified voters but there was no record of intimidation within the booth of the voting machine by rank outsiders.

POLO PLAYERS HARD AT WORK

American Team Practices Just as Much as Though They Were Going to Play British

NEXT MATCH IN ENGLAND

No Chance For International Games This Year But Fans Are Looking Forward

BY BARRY FARIS

New York, July 2.—American polo players may have to wait a year or two before they get another opportunity to display their talent against their British brothers in sport. But in the meantime the American players are keeping in perfect trim just as if the event was to be played this year as usual. The American polo authorities realize there is little chance for a match for some time, not at least until the war ends, for England is the place the next match will be staged.

But the distance of the date is one of the chief reasons why members of polo teams all over the country are practicing and playing exhibition games. For when the British get ready to give battle to the Americans on the polo field Uncle Sam's representatives are determined to be prepared.

And the enthusiasm with which the players have stuck to their practice work, where the cheering of spectators is painfully absent and the applause of admirers lacking, argues well for the spirit that dominates the sport. The local polo clubs have been keeping in condition by playing at the Meadowbrook Club, where friendly rivalry has added to the sport.

The same spirit is evident in the west, as testified by the spring tournaments in California. From reports reaching officials of the American Polo Association every big polo club in the country is faithfully following the leadership of the Meadowbrook Polo Club and maintaining it's fighting form, to be ready when the opportunity for an international match presents itself.

As a boost to the sport, Chairman Herbert of the American Polo Association, has mailed invitations to all players asking them to compete in the tournaments arranged for this season. This general opening of the doors of the sport world to all comers indicate that the Polo Association has no desire to restrict members of the American polo term in international contests to players from the Meadowbrook Club.

The American Polo Association has leased the Point Judith Association grounds, at Narragansett Pier, where it is planned to hold tournaments every year, beginning this season. From the play during the season at the Point Judith grounds the members of the Big Four, that will represent America in international matches, will be selected, as it is expected all the prominent players in the country will at some time exhibit their talents there.

This unofficial elimination arrangement would give every player a fair shake and should prove especially attractive to western players. Officials of the Polo Association emphasized that they hoped players from the west would make an effort to attend the tournaments this year as their appearance on the field is the best evidence they can offer to their fitness to make the Big American Team.

It is desired that when the next challenging team is formed the players may be selected according to their abilities and to make this possible players benefit themselves, and the sport, by giving the American Polo Association a chance to fairly and adequately judge their capabilities. The invitation is open and is to be well advertised all over the country so that all who ride may read.

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

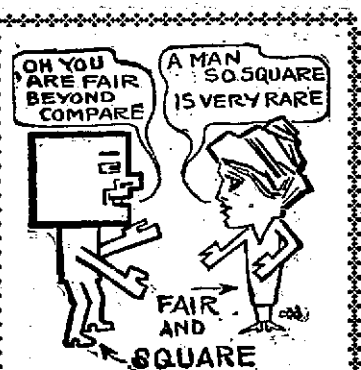

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together. And until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Catarrh Cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Movies Have Now Invaded The Sacred Field of Science

The "Movies" have invaded even the sacred field of science. The latest up-to-the-minute discovery is their peculiar value in Diagnosis. This discovery was made by the osteopaths and will be first demonstrated at the world's congress of osteopathic physicians surgeons and specialists in Portland, Oregon, the first week in August. Officially it is entitled the nineteenth annual session of the American Osteopathic Association, but as the foreign osteopaths are included in this organization it is in reality an international meeting. A thousand delegates will be present. Only one other school of practice has a larger attendance at its sessions, and no other has such a high percentage of its members present. At this convention the osteopaths will celebrate their arrival at the second place numerically in the healing art, as they have now more students than any other school of practice, save one, and are graduating more every year than any except the old school. They will also celebrate the fact that legislature recognition has now been secured in every State and that their colleges have been placed upon a full four year basis with the same or higher requirements than those of medical schools. The founder of osteopathy, Dr. A. T. Still, is still living at his home in Kirksville, Mo., the birthplace of the practice, but owing to the infirmities of his advanced age, will probably be able to attend the convention. The number of his followers now reaches 7,000.

Dr. J. Ivan Dufur, professor of nervous diseases, of the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, is the latest hero of the "Movies." For four hours he and the camera men were locked in a room with four insane epileptics waiting to snap just the right kind of fits. They also had many other harrowing experiences. Moving pictures, it is predicted will revolutionize the teachings of disease and diagnosis as these subjects can in no other way be vividly presented to the student.

Sunday preceding the Convention will see the pulpits of the churches of Portland occupied by distinguished osteopathic specialists from distant cities who will discuss problems of public health and morals. The week will open officially with a public mass meeting in the Opera House. Dr. R. Kendrick Smith, president of the Boston Browning Society, director of the public education bureau of the national osteopathic organization and well known as a lecturer and writer, will deliver a popular address upon public health. Dr. T. J. Ruddy, professor of ophthalmology at the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons at Los Angeles will give a stereopticon lecture upon the specialty in which he is a recognized authority. Dr. Arthur G. Hildreth, president of the Osteopathic Sanitarium at Macon, Mo., will tell how it has just been discovered that osteopathy cures some kinds of insanity.

The president, Dr. C. A. Upton, of St. Paul, Minn., will preside, and in the technical sessions which began Tuesday, Dr. George Laughlin, the "American Lorenz," as he is known in the Middle West, will open with an explanation of the osteopathic treatment of pneumonia. Dr. Carl P. McConnell, professor of osteopathy in the Chicago College and the pioneer research worker of the profession, will discuss the cause of the displacement of bones. "Twilight Sleep," not the drug kind, but the pressure anaesthesia, which is the osteopathic substitute for it, will be explained by Dr. M. E. Clark, of Indianapolis, the author of the text book on obstetrics. The establishment of osteopathic clinics in 300 churches throughout the country will be described by Dr. H. M. Vastine, of Harrisburg, Pa., chairman of the national board of clinics. Dr. C. M. T. Hulett, superintendent of the A. T. Still Research Institute in Chicago, will outline the latest experiments conducted in that institution.

The woman in osteopathy have started a national campaign for "better babies." They have entered into the work with amazing vigor, and Dr. Josephine L. Pierce, of Lima, O., chairman of the bureau, will conduct a special session in the work. Dr. O. J. Snyder, President of the Pennsylvania Board of Osteopathic Examiners and President of the American Academy of Osteopathic Clinical Research, will speak upon the progress of the work of the later body for perfection of accurate recording of cases. The chairman of the section on this department is Dr. William F. Waldo, of Seattle.

Dr. John Deason, of Chicago, director of the Osteopathic Research Institute and author of the latest text book on physiology, will discuss the pathology of the osteopathic "lesion" or displacement of bones. Dr. George Still, professor of Surgery of the American College of Osteopathy, Kirksville, Mo., reads a paper upon gall stones, and Dr. George Conley, professor of Surgery at the Central College of Osteopathy, Kansas City, Mo., discusses the diagnosis of acute abdominal conditions. Dr. Harry Forbes, president of the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, Los Angeles, speaks on osteopathic diagnosis, and Dr. H. H. Fryette, professor of technique of Chicago College and a specialist upon innumerate displacements, will demonstrate the methods of treating this condition.

Dr. Evelyn R. Bush, of Louisville, Ky., is to demonstrate the curative possibilities of osteopathic gymnastics. Dr. S. V. Roback, professor of experimental pathology at Chicago College, discusses serum therapy. Dr. W. H. Ivie, of Berkeley, Calif., chairman of the bureau of statistics, reports on the statistical situation in public health. Dr. P. H. Woodall, of Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the publicity department will report, also Dr. Asa Willard, of Missoula, Wis., chairman of the legislative committee; Dr. Arthur Flack dean of the Philadelphia College, for the Associated Colleges; Dr. H. L. Chiles, of Orange, N. J., national secretary, for the osteopathic publications. Dr. C. C. Reid, of Denver, Col., is chairman of the section on eye, ear, nose and throat and Dr. Otis Atkin, of Portland, Ore., of the section of orthopedic surgery, both of which will hold operative clinics. Dr. Charles Spencer professor of Physical Diagnosis in the Los Angeles College, speaks on diagnosis in hysteria, and neurasthenia. Dr. Edythe Ashmore, professor of nervous diseases in the American School of Osteopathy, is chairman on the section on mental diseases.

might even says its normal gay life. While the allied fleet and land forces pound away at the Dardanelles and the Russian fleet occasionally shells the Bosphorus forts, twenty miles away, a goodly part of the population of Constantinople gathers every afternoon in the municipal garden, takes tea or Turkish coffee and listens to the magnificent orchestra exactly as in times of peace.

WEEKLY FASHION LETTER.

BY MARGARET MASON.

No longer Sue and Sallie sit And knight and knit and knit On hoisery for soldiers bold They've had enough of it. Now Sue and Sallie sit and rock They've cast aside the sock Their busy fingers now they ply And smock and smock and smock.

New York, July 2.—A frock that hasn't a bit of a smock somewhere puckering its surface isn't worth having. It certainly is shocking the way the smocking has ousted the stocking as a means of laudwork among the fair sex these days. Everybody's doing it for since Fashion has lifted up her voice and said "Let there be smocks" there simply isn't anything else to it.

No self-respecting female would think of acceding to the coax "Come into the garden, Maud" without one of the lovely new linen garden smocks in a charming shade of rose, green, blue, or yellow. Not all these adorable smocks are worn within the garden wall either by any manner of means. They are worn where ever the Middy blouse erstwhile held undisputed sway. So even if your own particular garden happens to be only a window box of red geraniums you may still wear one of these fascinating smocks with perfect impunity.

Don't by any means jump to the conclusion that all the smocking is confined to the smocks. Some of our very best summer gowns are simply lavish with it. Apeing the quaint little smocked dresses for kiddies that have long been exported from London for fortunate infants grownups dresses are now smocked in dainty colors on their white organdie or other sheer fabric foundations. Even taffeta frocks and other summer silk relief somely upon smocking as their only garnishment.

Exquisite blouses or organdie and handkerchief linen are honeycombed with smocking in either white or colored threads and now this form of hand-work has even invaded the realm of lingerie and the chemise, petticoat and other essential undergarments of the up-to-date damsel are simply smocked up one side and down the other. You can't go to bed these nights in a manner approved by the mode unless your nightie is daintily smocked in pale blue or pink.

So mock not at the smock, my sisters, but get busy with your little thread and needle and do your smocking early if you would be amongst the smocked flock of fashion's chosen ones.

Lapsing into the slang of the moment you have noticed. Rollo, how every chicken along Broadway now looks like a little bit of Turkey? It's simply the effect of the newest hat, my boy, for its nothing less than a regulation Shriner convention effect. However, except in shape for these newest fads of fezes are mostly fashioned of white satin finished with a pure white silk tassel or else they are of white with a contrasting tassel of some vivid shaded silk or a metallic tassel of gold or silver. You'll be quite about the fezes for some faces but their effect on others will lead you instinctively to look askance for the hand organ.

There is a cruel blow about to descend upon unsuspecting his hands. Like the sword of Demosthenes or what ever his name was it is hanging over them and perhaps it would be an altruistic deed to tip them off and prepare them for the worst. Here goes—Dresses that hook up behind are due here this Fall. "Back to the mines" is as nothing to the slave driving cry of "Mine to the backs" which fashionable females will chant to their eringing spouses ere many monos. With the advent of the shoe that laces up behind it was inevitable that the reversion to back fastening frocks should follow. Anyway husbands have a good long vacation on so its really up to them to grin and bear it. 'Twere better for them to remark nonchalantly, smiling cheerily the while, "I'm glad to see you back again, my dear."

Indiana Law Makes it Possible For Hunters to Shoot Bushy Tails as Much as They Want.

THEY MUST HAVE A LICENSE

Consent of Land Owners is Also Needed—Squirrels Are Reported to be Plentiful.

Every sportsman who likes to shoot squirrels, or at least hunt for them, can now do so to his heart's content, so far as the Indiana law is concerned in the matter. The open season for Mr. Bushy tail opened yesterday and henceforth he will be playing hide and seek around the trunk of a tree while Mr. Hunter tries every known trick to get a shot at him.

Of course, there are some provisions about the law which even the most enthusiastic hunter must respect, notwithstanding that the season is now open. The hunter must first have a license to hunt, but the county clerk is ready to attend to this part of the proceeding at regular rates. The most essential thing, perhaps, is to get the consent of the land owner in whose timber one expects to hunt. This is not always so easy as most of the farmers have their lands posted against trespassers and hunters. They do this, it is said, not so much on account of the game that may be killed, but because they fear that hunters traveling from one farm to another will spread disease among live stock, such as hog cholera and kindred diseases. There is a penalty for any form of trespass if the land is posted and if the farmer wishes to prosecute.

The reports have it that the squirrel crop is a large one this year, but most likely the truth of these reports depend more or less upon the locality from whence it come. There are sections near this city where a hunter could hunt from daylight to nightfall and not find anything bigger than a chigger or one of those slow creeping wood ticks. But there are other places where squirrels are really more or less abundant.

Not very many local hunters went to the woods yesterday or today, as far as is known, though several no doubt participated in the sport. Many hunters have already gone to the woods before open season began and got the pick of the lot in the squirrel line. As much as a month ago guns have been heard booming in the woods and it has been reported that many of the young squirrels have fallen before the guns. These kind of hunters are a kind of snipers and their action is much like the fellows who grab for pie before the cook says dinner is ready.

There is no legal limit to the number of squirrels that a hunter can kill in one day. Any weapon can be used, a shot gun, a rifle or a club, and they can be hunted at any time during the day. However, the best time for shooting a squirrel is whenever one can find him.

WILL LIKELY BE LAST MEETING

Little Interest Taken in Indiana
Mayor's Association And it
May be Disbanded

IS SECOND OF ITS HISTORY

Convened Today in Indianapolis—
Mayor Bell is President of Organization.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—When the Indiana Mayor's association convened in the second meeting in its history here today, there were those present who believed the organization would disband. Since the organization was organized a year ago there has been a lack of interest.

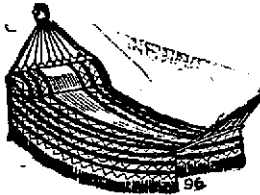

One member, who admitted that a show of interest today would result in a continuance of the association said that although several meetings had been called, they had been delayed from time to time, so that this was the first session since the organization meeting. This was only a temporary organization anyway, he said, and the idea had been to organize in a more permanent form if sufficient interest was shown.

If the association decides to continue, officers for the next year will be elected today. Mayor Joseph E. Bell of this city is now president. A. C. Sallee, the association secretary will retire today as he is no longer associated with municipal affairs. He formerly was Mayor Bell's secretary.

NEVER BEEN PUBLISHED.
The Daily Republican will publish tomorrow a list of Bible quotations which presidents of the United States have kissed at inauguration ceremonies as far back as the second term of President Grant. The Daniel Ryan, pastor of the M. E. church at Glenwood, wondered whether there was such a record in Washington. He felt that it would be a very interesting thing to know, because the quotation a president selected would undoubtedly be some indication of trait of character. He made inquiry of Louis Ludlow, Jr., former Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis Star, whose father resides in Glenwood. Mr. Ludlow made diligent search in Washington and found what the Rev. Mr. Ryan wanted. It will be published for the first time in Saturday's Republican.

Band Concert on Wednesday
Night

"Rushville, where did I ever hear of that place before?" he asked, half speaking to himself. "Oh, I know I played at your chautauqua."

"I don't believe you did," replied the Rushville minister. "We never had but two bands and yours was not one of them."

"Are there stone quarries there," he questioned.

"No," came back the answer, "they are at Bedford."

Soon he came back to Mr. Yocum. "I have it now," he said, "I worked on the columns of the court house there twenty years ago."

He did not venture an explanation of how he came to be one of the foremost bandmasters of the country in the intervening twenty years.

POTATOES GROW ON VINE.
Mrs. L. A. Wagoner, of near Gowdy, today brought to Rushville a most unusual potato vine. It grew in a potato patch on the farm of F. F. Reed, who lives across the road from Wagoner's. The singular thing about it is that the potatoes, instead of growing on the roots, are beginning to form on the vine. The small potatoes may be seen forming at almost every joint where a branch leaves the main stem.
